

New York State Education Department

Announcement for Candidates for the Distinguished Educator Program

Location: Placement varies statewide.

The New York State Education Department is implementing the Distinguished Educator Program to assist low performing districts and schools within such districts that have failed to make adequate yearly progress (AYP) for four or more years.

Under 8 NYCRR §100.17, the Commissioner may appoint a Distinguished Educator as a consultant for a one-year term to a district or assign her or him to a school or schools within such district. Also, upon satisfactory evaluation, a Distinguished Educator may be reappointed for one additional year.

Upon completion of the application process, successful candidates will be placed in a pool and may serve as Distinguished Educators. From this pool, the Commissioner will select and appoint Distinguished Educators to assist school districts in raising the achievement levels of all student groups.

Applications are currently being accepted for the Distinguished Educator Program.

Brief Summary of Roles and Responsibilities: A Distinguished Educator appointed to a district must, among other responsibilities: conduct an intensive review of district and school systems, structures, operations and facilities and develop an action plan outlining goals and objectives for the ensuing school year; work with district administration and Board of Education to review data, plan for improvement; assist in targeting district's priorities; recommend administrative and operational improvements to strengthen systems; and serve as an ex-officio, non-voting member of the board of education or trustees.

A Distinguished Educator assigned to a school within the district she or he has been appointed to must, among other responsibilities: assess the teaching and learning environment; identify or confirm systemic or instructional barriers and critical gaps in improving student achievement; align and improve curricula, instructional and assessment strategies; and develop an action plan outlining goals and objectives for the ensuing school year.
