In this essay I am going to tell you about how the swan’s behavior gets her into trouble and how Jerry’s behavior gets him into trouble. I am also going to tell you what you can learn from the results of their behaviors.

Swan’s behavior gets her in trouble because when swan said ha ha ha the fox noticed that it was the swan and the fox started chasing them. The swan was trying to be smart but she was not Smart enough:

Jerry's behavior got him into trouble because he was so upset that he let the other team score three runs. Jerry was so sorry for himself that he was unfocused.

I learned from swans' behavior that it is not every time that you have to show off and it is not every time you have to be smart. I learned from Jerry's behavior that if something goes wrong you should "hit the ground running".

So that was how swans' behavior gets her in trouble, how Jerry's behavior gets him in trouble and what can be learned from the result of their behavior.
