The State Education Department Charter School Office has scheduled a series of general informational sessions, open to all interested individuals or groups, to preview the 2012 NYSED Charter School application cycle and materials and accept comments from the public. The 2012 charter school application cycle will open on January 3, 2012, for prospective schools planning to open in August/September 2013. At the general information sessions, Department Charter School Office staff will outline the application materials and process, highlight changes from prior years, respond to general questions, and accept comments.
