ATTENDANCE

Attendance in school is critical to successful performance in the classroom. The presence of a student in the classroom on a regular basis is necessary to ensure that the student derives the maximum benefits from the course, including the opportunity for interaction with instructors and peers. Regular and prompt attendance at all classes is required. The school does not offer or withhold credit based on behavior. Problems with behavior are handled through the school's Behavioral Management Policy.

Absence from School:

If a student is unable to attend school, a parent/guardian must provide a written note for the student explaining the reason for the absence when he/she returns to NYSSD. This note should be given to the Attendance Secretary upon arrival.

An "excused" absence is usually granted only for medical reasons, religious commitments and family emergencies. According to the laws of New York, some forms of absences are legally unexcused even if the student has parent permission. If an absence is to be termed "excused" or "unexcused," the decision will be made by the Superintendent who should be consulted in cases of uncertainty.

EXAMPLES

Excused Absence:

- Illness of the student
- Emergency illness in the immediate family
- Death in the immediate family
- Inclement weather making travel unsafe
- Specific religious observances
- Required court appearance
- Medical or dental appointments
- Car trouble/bus trouble

Unexcused Absence:

- Visiting
- Vacation
- Missing the bus
- Needed at home
- Personal reasons
- Work
- Overslept

STUDENT BEHAVIOR CODE OF CONDUCT

Maintaining appropriate behavior within a school is imperative to the instructional process. The New York State School for the Deaf acknowledges that this is a collaborative effort that consists of the students, teachers, administrators and parents.

Effective discipline is a student's demonstration of and responsibility for socially appropriate behavior in a variety of school, community and real-life situations.

Adults and students building on the following principles accomplish effective discipline:

- Rules are essential as external controls that establish guidelines for behaviors
- Behavior is ultimately influenced by controls internal to the person
- All individuals acknowledge a need to do what is socially appropriate
- The individual's internal controls grow through strong and healthy relationships with family, adults and peers
- Rewards are internal to the person and associated to the satisfaction of needs
- Students need encouragement to analyze, reflect and address their needs in the school and the community
- Socially acceptable behavior is nurtured through teaching, modeling and interventions

Discipline is most effective when it correlates directly with the behavior at the time and place it occurs and in a manner that students perceive as fair and unprejudiced. School personnel who interact with students are expected to implement a disciplinary action only when necessary and to place emphasis on the students' ability to grow in self-discipline.

Disciplinary action, when required, will be firm, impartial and consistent so as to be the most effective in altering student behavior. In determining the relevant disciplinary action, school personnel authorized to impose disciplinary consequences will consider the following:

- The description of the offense and the circumstance that led to the offense
- The student's prior disciplinary record during the current school year
- The student's individual behavior plan
- The student's age
- Behavioral level
- The effectiveness of other methods of discipline
- Other extenuating circumstances
