A. District Overview

i. District strategy and theory of action to improve schools for college and career readiness

The New York City Department of Education's (NYCDOE)'s Chancellor's priorities guide our work to support our lowest achieving schools and ensure that all students graduate ready for college and careers. Our first priority is that we improve student outcomes through expert teaching. College and career readiness depends critically on the interaction between a student and teacher. Teachers must become masterful at developing students into independent and critical thinkers. Our teachers are working to implement curriculum aligned to the Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) and adjusting their classroom practice to the standards.

The second priority is that the NYCDOE must provide high-quality school choices for all families. Great work between students and teachers happens in the context of effective schools with cultures of achievement. We are committed to ensuring that all families are able to choose from a range of excellent school options for their children.

Strong partnerships with families are essential to student success. Our goal is that college and career readiness for students will become the daily work not just of principals and teachers, but of students themselves and of all of those who care for them. The district works to establish and strengthen partnerships by engaging actively with families as partners in pursuit of common goals. We also work with community-based organizations to support our schools and families.

Finally, we must provide effective school support. School leaders need support to address their schools' operational needs and to help build the instructional skills required to accelerate students' progress toward college and career readiness. Our Cluster and Network organizational structure provides schools with instructional and operational support that are designed to fit each school's specific needs and focus on our citywide priorities.

ii. District approach and actions for its lowest-achieving schools

The NYCDOE has a clear approach and set of actions to support the turnaround of our lowest achieving schools which impacts our Priority Schools. Our school improvement process focuses on three areas that result in actions to ensure we have effective principals leading our schools, the support of community partners in our schools, and autonomy for our principals to create successful schools.

First, a great school starts with a great principal. Over the past decade we have learned the powerful role a principal can play as change agent. We use a set of leadership competencies and seek principals for our schools who have demonstrated the qualities of effective leadership.

Second, we need community partners to help us develop great schools. We have worked with local and national intermediary organizations to help us develop and scale schools. These partners provide critical start-up support, proven instructional models, and help push the thinking of our school leaders. We have also attracted high-performing public charter schools to New York City to bring an even greater breadth of quality options to public school families.

Finally, there is no one recipe for what makes a great school. There are conditions that contribute to an effective school – a mission, leadership, and expert teachers devoted to student success – but there are different ways of organizing a school to create these conditions, especially given the need to serve diverse student populations. We encourage leaders to be innovative and to leverage their expertise to develop creative models by empowering them to make school-level instructional and operational decisions.

iii. Evidence of district readiness for system-wide improvement of Priority Schools

The NYCDOE has created a school improvement and intervention process to build on our current strengths and identify opportunities for system-wide improvement. Evidence includes the NYCDOE’s Struggling Schools Review Process, which identifies certain schools for intensive interventions and results in targeted plans for improvement for other schools. We have conducted a thorough analysis of our Priority Schools prepared to implement the Turnaround and Transformation models. We created a cross-functional Priority Schools district work group to examine school data trends, identify the appropriate intervention model for the school, and monitor each Priority School’s progress under the selected intervention model.

In 2010, the New York State Education Department (NYSED) raised expectations for the quality of student work and teacher practice with the adoption of the CCLS. The NYCDOE has continued to work on meeting the challenge by introducing Charlotte Danielson’s Framework for Teaching and creating our College and Career Readiness benchmarks. In 2011, these reforms led to the development of the first set of Citywide Instructional Expectations and the engagement of our school system in a long-term process of figuring out how to ensure that students at every grade level are on track to graduate from high school ready for college, careers, and other meaningful postsecondary opportunities.

In the fall of 2013, to support the shift in teaching practice required to help our students meet these higher standards, the NYCDOE will implement a new system of teacher evaluation and development. This change is critical because expert teaching is the most powerful tool for helping students reach these higher standards. Our Citywide Instructional Expectations combined with our Quality Review Rubric are intended to guide school communities as they work to create a rigorous and coherent instructional experience for students and educators.

B. Operational Autonomies

i. Operational autonomies for the Priority School

The principles and actions underlying the NYCDOE are leadership, empowerment, and accountability. Beginning in the 2007-08 school year, NYCDOE schools became autonomous, as principals and their teams gained broader discretion over allocating resources, choosing their staff, and creating programming for their students. Schools now have resources through the NYCDOE’s Fair Student Funding (FSF) formula, which allocates funding based on student need. Principals chose the type of support that is best for their schools. A more detailed description of the autonomies follows.

Budgeting: School-based budget for the Priority School is based on the FSF formula. The Priority School also receives additional funding through Title I allocations to support its goals as a struggling school. Funding follows each student to the Priority School that he or she attends based on student grade level, with additional dollars based on need (academic intervention, English Language Learners, special education, high school program). The principal has discretion to use FSF and any additional funding the school receives and is held accountable by the Superintendent through a School Comprehensive Educational Plan (SCEP) review process. In addition, the School Leadership Team is the primary vehicle for developing school-based educational policies and ensuring that resources are aligned to implement those policies.

Staffing: The Priority School receives a FSF allocation based on their enrollment, and the school is charged for the cost of teachers out of that allocation. The principal is held accountable for staffing as part of the annual evaluation by the Superintendent. The school leader is given the resources necessary to provide career growth opportunities for the staff. School-based actions include opportunities for additional pay through professional development and extended day instructional programs. The Priority School can also choose to participate in district-level teacher leadership programs that support the retention and development of expert teachers at the school. The Priority School is encouraged to participate in district-run teacher leadership programs to support the retention and development of expert teachers at their school.

Program selection: The principal may partner with one of nearly 60 Networks based on common priorities: grade levels, similar student demographics, and/or shared educational philosophies and beliefs. Some Networks focus on instructional models that support particular groups of students, such as high school students who are over-aged and under-credited. Others are organized around project-based learning or leadership development. Networks offer school communities school support options and let them determine which will best serve their students, staff, and their entire community. The school is also supported by Community and High School Superintendents, who communicate regularly with parent associations as well as other parent leaders and supervise district family advocates.

Educational partner selection: Schools have autonomy in selecting education partners that have been formally contracted by the NYCDOE after a rigorous vetting process. The NYCDOE oversees a Request for Proposal process from organizations experienced in working with schools in need of school improvement. Potential partners are required to provide a comprehensive whole school reform design for developing and maintaining effective school functions, while integrating specific plans to improve instruction, assessment, classroom management, and staff professional development. Accountability plans for the partner must be included based on annual evaluations of student progress in the Priority School. If progress is not evident, then the work with the partner is discontinued.

Use of Time During and After School: The Priority School has several opportunities for autonomy in the use of time during and after school. The school has the option to have Supplemental Educational Service (SES) providers support students through extended learning time. Community-based organizations selected by the Priority School also provide students with social-emotional health and counseling services. Schools can utilize a School-Based Option (SBO) to create flexible use of time. The SBO process allows individual schools to modify provisions in the Collective Bargaining Agreement related to class size, rotation of assignments or classes, teacher schedules and/or rotation of paid coverage for the school year. In the SBO process the school community creates a plan for how to effectively implement extended learning time. The principal and UFT chapter leader must agree to the proposed modification which is presented to school union members for vote. Fifty-five percent of the UFT voting members affirm the proposed SBO in order for it to pass. The intent of this type of SBO is to empower the school community on how to best make use of time before, during, and after school.

i. Evidence of formal policies on school autonomy

The NYCDOE provides organizational support to Priority Schools to reduce barriers and provide greater flexibility. The Office of State Portfolio Policy (OSPP) in the Division of Portfolio Planning (DPP) is designed to work with Priority Schools to determine their whole school reform models and support the schools with compliance requirements. School Implementation Managers (SIMs) are provided through SIG to assist Priority Schools with school improvement efforts and compliance requirements. Both teams of staff are held accountable through performance reviews and grant monitoring.

The Priority School receives funding in its budget to use flexibly and an additional funding allocation to support its school improvement activities, documented in a procedure known as a School Allocation Memorandum (SAM). The school's Network operations managers assist with budgeting. The use of these local Title I, 1003(a), and local funds must be aligned by the school with the school's SCEP submitted to NYSED. The Priority and Focus Schools SAM: http://schools.nyc.gov/offices/d\_chanc\_oper/budget/dbor/allocationmemo/fy12\_13/FY13\_PDF/am70.pdf

Educational partner selection from pre-qualified organizations is accomplished through the Multiple Task Award Contract (MTAC) procedure, which provides a stream-lined process for schools to follow: <http://schools.nyc.gov/Offices/DCP/KeyDocuments/MTACPQS.htm>.

The Priority School has the autonomy to select its required support from a Network. Since spring 2010, NYCDOE schools have received their instructional and operational support from a support team called a Network. Each Network team provides training and coaching for principals and teachers, shares instructional resources, and facilitates school collaboration. The Network team includes several Achievement Coaches, who go directly to schools to help teachers and instructional leaders implement the citywide instructional expectations in order to deliver rigorous instruction in their classrooms. On the operational side, Network team members assist schools with budgets and grants, facilities, compliance, and human resources.

Program selection for Priority Schools is described in the spring 2012-13 Network Directory: <http://schools.nyc.gov/AboutUs/schools/support/default.htm>

ii. Labor-management documentation

The School-Based Options (SBO) process is described in the NYCDOE/UFT Collective Bargaining Agreement on page 46 here: http://www.uft.org/files/contract\_pdfs/teachers-contract-2007-2009.pdf.

C. District Accountability and Support

i. Oversight of district's school turnaround effort and management structure

The specific senior leaders responsible for the district's turnaround efforts are Marc Sternberg, Senior Deputy Chancellor for Strategy and Policy, who oversees the Division of Portfolio Planning (DPP) in collaboration with Shael Suransky, Chief Academic Officer and Senior Deputy Chancellor for the Division of Academics, Performance, and Support (DAPS). These two leaders report to NYCDOE Chancellor Dennis Walcott. Attached is an organizational chart with more detail on the structure of DPP and DAPS, as well as a sample Network structure.

ii. Coordination of district structure for school turnaround efforts

The NYCDOE coordinates turnaround efforts and provides oversight and support for Priority Schools. Schools are directly supported by Networks that they select based on their academic needs; Networks are grouped into Clusters, who report to the Office of School Support (OSS) in DAPS. SIMs report to Clusters by district and provide Priority Schools with direct oversight and support in their turnaround efforts. The Office of Superintendents in DAPS oversees the Superintendents; there are 32 Community Superintendents and 8 High School Superintendents who oversee principals. The Superintendent serves as the principal's supervisor and conducts the school's Quality Review (QR). DPP coordinates the turnaround efforts for the NYCDOE and supports Priority Schools in collaboration with DAPS. The designated turnaround office is the Office of State Portfolio Policy (OSPP) within DPP, which works with Priority Schools to support their whole school reform model selection, implementation, and progress monitoring. External partner organizations working with Priority Schools are evaluated by schools and the Division of Contracts and Purchasing based on performance targets.

The NYCDOE uses a wide range of data to identify schools that are struggling. Schools that receive a grade of D, F, or a third consecutive C or worse on their most recent Progress Report, schools that receive a rating of Underdeveloped on their most recent QR, and schools identified as Priority Schools by NYSED are considered for support or intervention. To identify the kind of action that will be best for a struggling school and its students, the NYCDOE reviews school performance data such as student performance trends over time, demand/enrollment trends, efforts already underway to improve the school, and talent data. We consult with Superintendents and other experienced educators who have worked closely with the school, and gather community feedback on what is working or needs improvement in the school.

At the end of this process, analysis and engagement directs us to a set of schools that quantitative and qualitative indicators show do not have the capacity to significantly improve. These schools are identified for the most serious intervention, phase-out and then replacement by a new school(s). For the other struggling schools, Networks develop action plans to support the needs of struggling schools. These plans identify action steps, benchmarks, and year-end goals aimed at immediately improving student achievement.

The NYCDOE monitors each individual Priority School and its areas of strength and weakness. The SIM and Network that work with the Priority School provide day-to-day support in areas that are targeted for school improvement. System-wide we are working to continue to enhance our capacity to better support schools, with a focus on ensuring that we have high-quality staff that work with and in our Priority Schools.

Following New York State's ESEA waiver approval, the NYCDOE established a Priority Schools work group across central divisions to recommend whole school reform models for the NYCDOE's 122 Priority Schools. The work group reviews school data points and alignment to the three intervention model options: the School Improvement Grant plan, School Innovation Fund plan, or School Comprehensive Education Plan (SCEP) crosswalk.

For our lowest-performing schools, we propose a strategy of phasing out the struggling school and replacing it with a new school. The Priority Schools in this category are then proposed for the Turnaround model. Schools that are not selected for phase-out from our Struggling Schools Review Process will submit a SCEP crosswalk aligned to the U.S. Department of Education's seven turnaround principles. For the schools we consider for the Transformation model, we review a wide range of data points about each Priority School, including Progress Report grades, QR results, and qualitative Cluster feedback on the school's readiness to implement the model requirements. Schools are selected based on the quantitative data and the qualitative data about their levels of readiness to implement the Transformation model.

The NYCDOE has a well-developed planning and feedback process between the district and school leadership. The QR is a key part of this process and was developed to assist schools in raising student achievement. The QR is a two- or three-day school visit by experienced educators. During the review, the external evaluator visits classrooms, interviews school leaders and staff, and uses a rubric to evaluate how well the school is organized to support student achievement. Before a reviewer visits a school, the school leadership completes a self-evaluation based on the QR rubric. Reviewers draw upon this document and school data during interviews with principals, teachers, students, and parents during the school visit. After the site visit, schools receive a QR score and report that is published publicly. This document provides the school community with evidence-based information about the school's development, and serves as a source of feedback for school leadership to improve support for student performance.

In addition to QRs, Progress Reports are a yearly accountability, planning, and feedback tool that assist school leaders, as well as parents, teachers, and school communities, with understanding the school's strengths and weaknesses, emphasizing the development students have made in the past year. Progress Reports grade each school with an A, B, C, D, or F and are made up of four sections: Student Progress, Student Performance, School Environment, and (for high schools only) College and Career Readiness. Scores are based on comparing results from each school to a citywide benchmark and to a peer group of about 40 schools with similar student populations. These peer schools provide an opportunity for a school to understand how other schools are performing with similar students and learn best practices from them. Schools are also provided with student-level data workbooks that contain the underlying information from the Progress Report. These data workbooks are a powerful opportunity for schools, in collaboration with their Networks, to engage with their accountability data to understand individual student outcomes.

A third part of the NYCDOE planning and feedback process for school leadership is the APPR for principals pursuant to Education Law 3012-c. The components of the system are set forth in the June 1st determination by the Commissioner of Education and supporting documentation, Education Law 3012-c and SED regulations. Superintendents are the rating officer for the principals. The APPR results in a final rating for principals of Highly Effective, Effective, Developing or Ineffective and is based on key metrics from the school's Progress Report results which measure students' growth and the principal's practice as measured by the Quality Review rubric.

iii. Timeframe and persons responsible

See attached chart.

D. Teacher and Leader Pipeline

i. Recruitment goals and strategies at schools to access high-quality leaders and teachers

The NYCDOE seeks to ensure that every student has the opportunity to learn from a high-quality educator in a school with a strong school leader, particularly in high-poverty and high-minority schools. To accomplish this goal, we develop a pipeline of expert teachers and leaders and provide them with targeted support.

To increase the number of candidates who are well-prepared to become principals, we have strengthened and expanded our principal preparation programs. Simultaneously, we have shifted our focus toward identifying talented educators earlier in their careers and nurturing their leadership skills while they remain in teacher leadership roles. Our goal is to develop a strong and sustainable leadership pipeline for schools. The NYCDOE created the Principal Candidate Pool selection process to make clear the expectations for principals in the recruitment process. The process is used to discern all candidates' readiness for the position of principal and ability to impact student achievement.

Our theory of action holds that if future school leaders are strategically identified and rigorously cultivated earlier in their careers, NYCDOE schools will develop a leadership pipeline for years to come. This includes both on-the-job opportunities like the Leaders in Education Apprenticeship Program (LEAP), principal internships such as the NYC Leadership Academy Aspiring Principal Program (APP), executive leadership institutes, and mentoring opportunities for experienced school leaders.

To recruit expert teachers, NYCDOE creates a diverse candidate pool. For subject-shortage areas in which there are not enough traditionally-certified teachers to meet the needs of schools, we developed alternative-certification programs such as the New York City Teaching Fellows, which prepares skilled professionals and recent college graduates to teach in high-need schools. Begun in 2000, since then the program has provided schools with more than 17,000 teachers. Today, nearly 8,500 Fellows are currently teaching in 86% of NYCDOE schools. In addition, we created a teaching residency program specifically to build a pipeline of teachers prepared to turnaround the performance of our lowest-performing schools. The NYCDOE created the Leader Teacher program for experienced educators to support professional development in their schools. The NYCDOE also leverages the state-funded Teachers of Tomorrow grant to provide recruitment and retention incentives for teachers to work in our highest-need schools.

ii. Hiring and budget processes

In the 2012-13 school year, approximately $9 billion of NYCDOE funding, not including most fringe and pension, resides in school budgets. FSF dollars – approximately $5 billion in the 2012-13 school year – are used by schools to cover basic instructional needs and are allocated to each school based on the number and need-level of students enrolled at that school. All money allocated through FSF can be used at the principal’s discretion. Additional funding is provided through categorical and programmatic allocations.

Each year the NYCDOE sets hiring policies to ensure that the appropriate number and types of teachers and principals can be recruited and hired into our 1,700 schools. Principals are typically in place in schools by July 1 before the start of the next school year to begin year-long planning and school improvement efforts. Once selected, principals are empowered to make staffing decisions for their schools. The NYCDOE’s responsibility is to offer a strong pool of applicants for principals to find the staff that they believe are the best fit for their school communities.

Schools receive their budgets for the new fiscal year each May. Annual hiring exceptions are set to ensure that hard-to-staff schools are staffed appropriately. These exceptions are made on the basis of the following factors: hard to staff subject areas, geographic districts, and grade level (elementary, middle, high). The timeline allows school leaders the ability to plan for any staffing needs or adjustments in concert with the citywide hiring process which begins in the spring and continues into the summer.

iii. District-wide trainings for leaders for success at low-achieving schools

The NYCDOE creates and collaborates with partners on principal training programs to build a pipeline of principals with the ability to drive teaching quality and student achievement district-wide, especially in schools with the greatest need. While distinct in program design and target candidates, our principal preparation programs share the following characteristics: 1) a carefully-developed recruitment process to screen for highly qualified participants, 2) required completion of a practical residency period, and 3) projects capturing evidence of impact on leadership development and student gains.

The school leadership programs align to the Transformation model by preparing leaders who understand the challenges facing struggling schools to lead dramatic instructional and organizational changes. These programs have been funded in part by support from the Wallace Foundation to further develop school leadership in the NYCDOE. Approximately 37% of our principals have emerged from these programs.

LEAP, launched in 2009, is a rigorous 12-month on-the-job program designed with the NYC Leadership Academy. LEAP develops school leaders within their existing school environments and creates opportunities to harness existing relationships including those with current principals and school communities. The LEAP curriculum differentiates learning based on individual needs and is aligned with the NYCDOE’s instructional initiatives and the CCLS.

The NYC Leadership Academy Aspiring Principal Program (APP) develops and supports individuals with some leadership experience to successfully lead low-performing schools through simulated school projects, a year-long principal internship with an experienced mentor principal on all aspects of instructional and organizational leadership, and a planning period. The New Leaders’ Aspiring Principals Program provides apprentice principals with an academic foundation and real-world experience vital to success in transforming the NYCDOE's lowest-performing schools. New Leaders' trains future principals to turnaround low-performing schools. Principals are trained through the Children's First Intensive (CFI) Institutes, which they attend to learn about the Citywide Instructional Expectations, CCLS, and the Danielson model. CFI is a professional development program designed to support educators in using data to inform instructional and organizational decision-making and focus on citywide initiatives. The Office of Leadership has more information on NYCDOE school leadership opportunities available: <http://schools.nyc.gov/AboutUs/leadershippathways/schoolleadership/default.htm>

Melitina Hernandez became principal of PS 123 mid-year, beginning in April 2013. Prior to this appointment, she had spent four years as the assistant principal of P.S./I.S. 171 in District 4, another Title 1 K-8 school. In this role, she was largely responsible for organizing curriculum and professional development for elementary grades. During her tenure there (2009-2013), the school earned consecutive A grades on their Progress Report, and a Well-Developed on their last Quality Review.

iv. District-wide trainings for teachers in low-achieving schools

The NYCDOE believes that to support teachers in their growth and development, it is important to have a common language and understanding of what quality teaching looks like. We have invested significant resources into deepening schools' and teachers' understanding of Charlotte Danielson's Framework for Teaching, while training principals to do more frequent cycles of formative classroom observations and feedback. Resources to support this work are provided to schools and educators in a number of ways: central and school-based professional development opportunities, online courses, and centrally-based Talent Coaches who work across multiple schools. In addition, the NYCDOE has developed district-wide training programs to build the capacity of specific groups of teachers, including new teachers, teacher leaders, and teachers that work with special populations.

New teachers who work in low-achieving schools are provided differentiated levels of support, depending on their pathway to teaching. The NYCDOE's Middle School Spring Classroom Apprenticeship helps prepare aspiring teachers (traditionally-certified and alternatively-certified) for the rigor and challenges of a high-need school through an intensive ten-week, school-embedded program. The New York City Teaching Fellows program, along with the Teach for America program, prepares alternatively-certified teachers through an intensive pre-service training program and then a subsidized master's degree program while Fellows or Corps members are teaching in a New York City public school.

In the summer of 2011, NYCDOE also launched the NYC Teaching Residency program to specifically support schools implementing intervention models. The program focuses on recruiting and preparing individuals dedicated to driving change as part of a school turnaround strategy in our lowest-performing schools. The Teaching Residency program currently offers a full immersion experience at a school for one year, working alongside a Resident Teacher Mentor as an apprentice teacher in the classroom while also receiving training in teaching strategies proven to be successful in turning around school performance. Training residents also have university coursework toward a graduate degree in education tailored to support their career development. Residency graduates go on to work in high-poverty and high-minority schools.

Several district-wide training programs are also available for teacher leaders who work in low-achieving schools. First, the Lead Teacher program allows teachers to stay in the classroom while supporting their colleagues as a part-time coach. Professional development is offered monthly through a collaboration with the UFT Teacher Center. More than 230 teachers are participating across 140 schools in 2012-13. Second, the Teacher Leadership Program (TLP) was established in 2012 and is a one-year program that builds the capacity of teacher leaders to develop their instructional and facilitative leadership skills. During the 2012-13 school year, TLP trained 250 teachers in 189 schools. The program is anticipated to expand to train 375 teacher leaders during the 2013-14 school year, which will focus on teacher teams from the same school. Finally, the Common Core Fellows lead the citywide work around articulating and evaluating what quality instruction looks like as we transition to the Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS). Teachers are trained to examine the quality and alignment of instructional materials to the CCLS. There are 300 fellows in school year 2012-13. Fellows have examined more than 600 samples of work to date this year across all Clusters. NYCDOE teacher leadership programs are described here:

<http://schools.nyc.gov/AboutUs/leadershippathways/teacherleadership/default.htm>.

v. District trainings offered for Year One (September 2013-August 2014)
See attached chart.

E. External Partner Recruitment, Screening, and Matching

i. District mechanism to identify, screen, select, match, and evaluate partners for school
To identify, screen, select, match, and evaluate external partner organizations, the NYCDOE uses a Pre-Qualified Solicitation (PQS) process to award contracts. PQS is an ongoing open call-for-proposals process by which the NYCDOE thoroughly vets potential partners. Each vendor undergoes a rigorous screening process, which includes a comprehensive background check and proposal evaluation by a committee of three program experts who independently evaluate vendor proposals in terms of project narrative, organizational capacity, qualifications and experience, and pricing level. The result is a pool of highly-qualified partner organizations which are approved and fully contracted. The Priority School is then able to select services from any of the pre-qualified external partner organizations by soliciting proposals and choosing the best fit according to its needs.

In addition, the NYCDOE uses a specific solicitation process called Whole School Reform, which seeks proposals from organizations experienced in working with schools in need of school intervention. The goal is for the partners to support the school to build capacity and enable the school to continue improvement efforts on its own. Partner proposals must offer a variety of methods and strategies grounded in best practices to achieve substantial gains. Potential partners provide accountability plans that include annual evaluations on student achievement progress and the process for enabling schools to continue the reform efforts beyond the contract period, along with at least three references from current or past client schools. Once partner proposals are reviewed by the evaluation committee and recommended for approval, further due diligence is done before formal recommendation for the Panel for Educational Policy for approval. Schools have discretion to select approved partners based on their scope of service needs.

Major partners that will be providing services critical to the implementation of the school's plan are Studio in a School Association, Inc., Literacy Support Systems, Inc., Graham Wyndham, YMCA, Carmel Hill Fund, Brooklyn Historical Society, Wilson Reading, Ramapo for Children and JDL.

ii. Process to ensure school has access to partner by start of Year One Priority Schools receive budget allocations for the new fiscal year in late May, well in advance of the start of the new fiscal year in July and the start of the school year in September. The NYCDOE budget process provides schools with ample time to secure external partner support through the above-mentioned PQS system. Schools may secure services from a list of external partners that have already been thoroughly vetted by NYCDOE.

Individual schools create a scope of service and solicit proposals from partners based on their specific needs. Once received, schools score proposals and award contracts to the most competitive and cost-effective external partner. Using the PQS system, Priority Schools secure support from effective external Whole School Reform partners as early as May or June, well in advance of the year-one implementation period.

iii. Roles of district and school principal for partner screening, selection and evaluation

The NYCDOE manages the initial process of screening potential partner organizations so that schools can focus on selecting partner organizations based on their budget and service needs. NYCDOE manages an ongoing call-for-proposals process for select PQS categories of services to schools. All proposals received by the NYCDOE for the PQS must first be reviewed to determine if they meet all of the submission and vendor qualifications prescribed in the call for proposal. Proposals meeting these requirements are evaluated and rated by a district-based evaluation committee within specific criteria.

As needed, the NYCDOE may conduct site visits to verify information contained in a proposal and may require a potential partner to make a presentation on their services or submit additional written material in support of a proposal. Once the NYCDOE recommends a vendor for award, the recommendation is reviewed by the Division of Contracts and Purchasing for approval and then the Panel for Educational Policy for review and final approval.

School principals are able to contract services from any of the approved pre-qualified educational partners by developing a specific scope of work, soliciting proposals using a user-friendly online tool and choosing the most competitive partner according to their specific needs. Once school principals receive school budgets for the new fiscal year in May, they are able to begin negotiating with potential partners for services in the new school year. The process allows principals sufficient time to solicit vendors and establish contracts in time for the new school year and possible preparation activities during the summer.

At the end of each school year, each school principal evaluates the services of the vendors – based on the objectives, proposed scope of services, and outcomes from the services – and determines whether to continue the partnership.

F. Enrollment and Retention Policies, Practices, and Strategies

i. Priority School's enrollment

In P.S. 123 Mahalia Jackson, students with disabilities comprise 17% of the school's population, about the same as the citywide K-8 school average. English Language Learners comprise 26% of the school's population, 15% points higher than the citywide K-8 school average. Only 21% of the students at the school are proficient in English Language Arts, putting the school in the bottom 6% citywide. Only 30% of the students at the school are proficient in Mathematics, putting the school in the bottom 4% citywide. Students with disabilities, ELLs, and students performing below proficiency have the same access to schools as their non-disabled, English proficient, and proficient scoring peers. Developing a choice-based system for enrolling students has been a cornerstone of NYCDOE's Children's First Reform efforts. In the past two years, the Department has worked to increase equitable access to high quality programs at all grade levels in the community school district.

The elementary school process for admission includes a mix of choice and zoned schools. Zoned schools give priority to students who live in the geographic zoned area. Choice schools admit students based on published admissions priorities. Families may apply to all schools of interest. Our portfolio strategy to increase access has led to the elimination of zones in several districts. In Districts 1, 7, and 23, there are no zoned schools. Families in each of these districts have an opportunity to apply to any school of interest, and can express their preferences by ranking choices on a single application.

At the middle school level, all students within a geographic district have the same access. Some districts maintain primarily zoned middle schools, which give priority to students in the geographic zone. Most districts have at least some choice schools which have admissions methods based on academic or artistic ability, language proficiency, demonstrated interest, or unscreened.

ii. Policies for SWDs, ELLs, and low-proficiency students' access to high-quality schools

The NYCDOE has policies and practices in place to help ensure that Students with Disabilities (SWDs), English Language Learners (ELLs), and students performing below proficiency have increasing access to diverse and high quality school options across the district. The NYCDOE Progress Report also ensures that schools have public data that encourages the school to focus on SWDs and ELLs. In addition, the Progress Report rewards additional credit to schools that make significant progress or have high performance with either of these subgroups.

The NYCDOE operates a school choice-based system for students and families from PreK to high school, which consistently matches the majority of students to their top choice schools. For example, for the previous five years, the high school admissions process has matched over 80% of students to one of their top five choices. In November 2011, the Brookings Institution issued a report that cited New York City's school choice system as the most effective of any of the nation's largest school districts. The NYCDOE's recent enrollment reform efforts continue the work to ensure that SWDs, ELLs, and students performing below proficiency have access to diverse and high quality school options across the district.

The NYCDOE has changed the composition of seats for students in the high school admissions process by de-screening seats in programs that maintain unfilled seats. Typically, schools that have screened programs are allowed to rank students who meet that program's admissions criteria, and only those students who are ranked may be matched to that school. However, this has historically led to situations in which students, who may be just slightly under the admissions criteria, are denied access to a desirable seat, while some school seats remain unfilled.

As a pilot program in school year 2011-12, the NYCDOE de-screened seats in programs that were not filling their seat targets in order to provide greater access to SWDs, ELLs, and students performing below proficiency. The work of de-screening approximately 20 programs resulted in the placement of approximately 900 students into academically screened seats that would have otherwise gone unfilled. In 2012-13, the NYCDOE further expanded this pilot to ensure that all students have access to screened seats. As a result almost 1,300 students were placed into these programs. The NYCDOE will continue this work.

It is not enough to only provide access to high-quality school options for SWDs, ELLs, and students performing below proficiency. Once these students are enrolled in desirable school programs, the NYCDOE is supporting schools in meeting their unique learning needs. The NYCDOE previously made modifications to the Fair Student Funding formula to provide weights, which provide additional funding, for harder-to-serve students, including weights for Academic Intervention Services (AIS), English Language Learners (ELLs), and Special Education Services. In 2011-12, the NYCDOE revised the funding methodology to provide additional weights to traditional high schools serving overage under-credited (OAUC) students. Providing schools with additional funding for AIS and OAUC further supports students that are performing below proficiency, and may also include ELLs and/or SWDs.

iii. District strategies for enrollment equity

The NYCDOE employs specific strategies to ensure that Priority Schools are not receiving or incentivized to receive disproportionately high numbers of SWDs, ELLs, and students performing below proficiency.

The most important strategy is the reform of the over-the-counter (OTC) process, which has been critical to managing disproportionately high enrollment of SWDs, ELLs, and students performing below proficiency in Priority Schools. Each summer, the NYCDOE opens temporary registration centers across the city to assist families seeking placement or hardship transfers during the peak enrollment period before the start of school. Approximately 15,000 new or returning students are placed during the peak OTC period and are overwhelmingly higher-needs students. Placements are made based on projected seat availability by October 31. The NYCDOE is working to lessen the concentration of OTC students at any one school.

For the past two years, the NYCDOE has added seats to every high school's OTC projection. As a result, the impact of OTC placements at low-performing schools, including former Persistently-Lowest Achieving (PLA) or Priority Schools, was minimized, and there was an increase in student access to more programs. The NYCDOE OTC population changes year to year. As it changes, we have mitigated the effects of high populations of harder-to-serve students for PLA/Priority Schools. For example, from 2011 to 2012, the number of Special Education Students placed during OTC increased by 14% citywide. However, for PLA/Priority schools the number of Special Education Students placed during OTC actually decreased by 2%.

G. District-level Labor and Management Consultation and Collaboration

i. Consultation and collaboration on district- and school-level plans

The NYCDOE has consulted and collaborated with key stakeholders on the development of SIG district and school-level implementation plans. The NYCDOE provided guidance to schools, Networks, and Clusters in the development of their school-level plans to engage school stakeholders in the development of the SIG plan.

Schools submitted Attachment A, the Consultation & Collaboration Documentation Form, in order to ensure consultation and collaboration took place on the school-level plans. School-plan signatures included representatives from the principals' union – the Council of Supervisors & Administrators (CSA), teachers' union – the United Federation of Teachers (UFT), and a parent leader.

At the district-level, the NYCDOE consulted and collaborated with recognized district leaders of UFT, CSA, and CPAC. The initial SIG engagement process with each group took place April 26-May 2 via phone calls and emails about the NYCDOE SIG applications. Following the initial engagement, the NYCDOE met with the Chancellor's Parent Advisory Council (CPAC) in a full meeting on May 9 to consult and collaborate on SIG. CPAC is the group of parent leaders in the NYCDOE; it is comprised of presidents of the district presidents' councils. The role of CPAC is to consult with the district presidents' councils to identify concerns, trends, and policy issues, and it advises the Chancellor on NYCDOE policies.

The NYCDOE and UFT held a SIG consultation and collaboration meeting on May 16. The NYCDOE then followed up on the three issues raised by the UFT in the meeting. Based on the UFT's concern about the Turnaround model, the NYCDOE proposed language to include in the applications. Following up on the UFT's concern about including targets for "effective" and "highly effective" teachers in Attachment B at this time, the NYCDOE agreed to not ask schools to submit this information as our APPR plan was not yet underway. Finally, the NYCDOE addressed the concern about school-level consultation and collaboration by extending the school-level submission of Attachment A by two weeks, addressing school-specific concerns as needed, and participating in meetings with the UFT to share SIG information. For the new schools, the UFT and NYCDOE jointly facilitated a consultation and collaboration meeting on May 28 for the new school principals and the UFT district representatives on the new school plans. The UFT and NYCDOE met on June 5 in another consultation and collaboration meeting.

On June 5, the NYCDOE and CSA held a SIG consultation and collaboration meeting. Prior to the meeting, multiple phone calls and emails took place to discuss SIG and address specific school questions. The NYCDOE responded to CSA requests for information about the SIG applications.

ii. Consultation and Collaboration Form (Attachment A)

See attached. The district-level form is signed by the president/leaders of the teachers' union, principals' union, and district parent body. The individuals who signed are Michael Mulgrew – UFT President, Ernest Logan – CSA President, and Jane Reiff – CPAC Co-Chair.

c. Each SBM / SDM team shall determine the range of issues it will address and the decision-making process it will use.

3. Staff Development

The Board shall be responsible for making available appropriate staff development, technical assistance and support requested by schools involved in SBM / SDM, as well as schools expressing an interest in future involvement in the program. The content and design of centrally offered staff development and technical assistance programs shall be developed in consultation with the Union.

4. Waivers

a. Requests for waivers of existing provisions of this Agreement or Board regulations must be approved in accordance with the procedure set forth in Article Eight B (School Based Options) of this Agreement i.e. approval of fifty-five (55) percent of those UFT chapter members voting and agreement of the school principal, UFT district representative, appropriate superintendent, the President of the Union and the Chancellor.

B. School-Based Options

The Union chapter in a school and the principal may agree to modify the existing provisions of this Agreement or Board regulations concerning class size, rotation of assignments/classes, teacher schedules and/or rotation of paid coverages for the entire school year. By the May preceding the year in which the proposal will be in effect, the proposal will be submitted for ratification in the school in accordance with Union procedures which will require approval of fifty-five (55) percent of those voting. Resources available to the school shall be maintained at the same level which would be required if the proposal were not in effect. The Union District Representative, the President of the Union, the appropriate Superintendent and the Chancellor must approve the proposal and should be kept informed as the proposal is developed. The proposal will be in effect for one school year.

Should problems arise in the implementation of the proposal and no resolution is achieved at the school level, the District Representative and the Superintendent will attempt to resolve the problem. If they are unable to do so, it will be resolved by the Chancellor and the Union President. Issues arising under this provision are not subject to the grievance and arbitration procedures of the Agreement.

C. School Allocations

Before the end of June and by the opening of school in September, to involve faculties and foster openness about the use of resources, the principal shall meet with the chapter leader and UFT chapter committee to discuss, explain and seek input on the use of the school allocations. As soon as they are available, copies of the school allocations will be provided to the chapter leader and UFT chapter committee.

Any budgetary modifications regarding the use of the school allocations shall be discussed by the principal and chapter committee.

The Board shall utilize its best efforts to develop the capacity to include, in school allocations provided pursuant to this Article 8C, the specific extracurricular activities budgeted by each school.

D. Students' Grades

The teacher's judgment in grading students is to be respected; therefore if the principal changes a student's grade in any subject for a grading period, the principal shall notify the teacher of the reason for the change in writing.

E. Lesson Plan Format

The development of lesson plans by and for the use of the teacher is a professional responsibility vital to effective teaching. The organization, format, notation and other physical aspects of the lesson plan are appropriately within the discretion of each teacher. A principal or supervisor may suggest, but not require, a particular format or organization, except as part of a program to improve deficiencies of teachers who receive U-ratings or formal warnings.

F. Joint Efforts

The Board of Education and the Union recognize that a sound educational program requires not only the efficient use of existing resources but also constant experimentation with new methods and organization. The Union agrees that experimentation presupposes flexibility in assigning and programming pedagogical and other professional personnel. Hence, the Union will facilitate its members' voluntary participation in new ventures that may depart from usual procedures. The Board agrees that educational experimentation will be consistent with the standards of working conditions prescribed in this Agreement.

The Board and the Union will continue to participate in joint efforts to promote staff integration.

The parties will meet with a view toward drafting their collective bargaining agreements to reflect and embody provisions appropriate to the new and/or nontraditional school program organizational structures that have developed in the last several years, including as a result of this Agreement.

ESEA Flexibility Waiver

In September 2011, the Federal government announced an ESEA regulatory initiative, inviting states to request flexibility regarding specific requirements of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB) in exchange for state-developed plans designed to improve educational outcomes for all students, close achievement gaps, increase equity, and improve the quality of instruction. NYSED received approval from the U.S. Department of Education (USDE) for its flexibility waiver request, authorizing New York State to revise its accountability system and provide schools across New York State with flexibility in aligning resources to increase student outcomes. For additional information regarding specific provisions waived please visit: <http://www.p12.nysed.gov/esea-waiver/>

The waiver replaces the previous identification system and categories (PLA, Restructuring, Corrective Action, In Need of Improvement, In Good Standing, Rapidly Improving, and High Performing) with the new categories of Priority Schools, Focus Districts and Focus Schools, Local Assistance Plan Schools, Recognition Schools, and Reward Schools, using a new identification process. According to state rules, the identification of Priority, Focus, and Reward Schools is based on data from the 2010-11 school year and prior.

Effective from 2012-13 through 2014-15, the new system introduces more realistic performance targets and puts greater emphasis on student growth and college- and career-readiness, which also aligns with the Chancellors' priorities.

The ESEA waiver grants flexibility in the following areas:

- o 2013-14 Timeline for All Students Becoming Proficient
- o School and District Improvement Requirements
- o Highly Qualified Teacher Improvement Plans
- o School-wide Programs
- o Use of School Improvement Grant Funds
- o Twenty-First Century Community Learning
- o Determining Annual Yearly Progress (AYP) for each school and district (optional)
- o Rank Order

This flexibility also releases all schools from the requirement of setting aside 5% and 10% of their allocation to support the highly qualified and professional development mandates. It allows schools the opportunity to align resources and design programs that meet the specific needs of students to increase outcomes.

Allocation and Requirements

As per the ESEA Flexibility waiver, the allocation for Priority and Focus Schools is based on the county provisions and county allocations for New York City. The percentages required to be set aside for Priority and Focus school range from 5% to 9%. Four of the five counties were identified as having a need under the new regulations. The per capita for each county is as follows:

Borough	Manhattan	Bronx	Brooklyn	Queens	Staten Island
Per Capita	$277.96	$242.33	$257.86	$281.96	N/A

The Title I Priority and Focus school allocation must support program and activities mentioned in the School Comprehensive Education Plan (SCEP). Allowable activities appear in Appendix A. Schools will also need to identify the allowable activities with each item scheduled in Galaxy, as indicated in more detail below.

Parent Involvement

Priority and Focus Schools that received Title I Part A must continue to set aside 1% of their school's allocation to support parent involvement activities and programs. Chancellor's Regulation A-655 requires School Leadership Teams to consult with Title I parent representatives regarding the Title I program and the use of these funds. Parent involvement activities funded through Title I must be included in the parent involvement policy and aligned with student achievement goals in the comprehensive education plan.

A school-wide program (SWP) is based on a comprehensive school-wide program plan designed collaboratively at the school level to improve instruction. In addition to providing challenging content, the school-wide program plan incorporates intensive professional development for staff and collaboration, where appropriate, with community organizations to strengthen the school's program.

Parent Engagement

Focus and Priority schools that received Title I Part A must also set aside 1% of their Title I Focus and Priority School allocation for Parent Engagement programs. Non-Title I Priority and Focus Schools will receive support for parent activities based upon 2% of a school's estimated poverty costs utilizing the same rate as their borough Title I per capita, to provide for the base 1% Parent Involvement and 1% Parent Engagement mandates.

The primary objective of this additional set aside is to enable greater and more meaningful parent participation in the education of their children. To this end, we have identified these Partnership Standards for School and Families which define parent engagement and provide guidance to schools and families in building partnerships that lead to greater student success. These allowable activities may be supported with the set-aside requirement and include:

- Fostering Communication: School and families engage in an open exchange of information regarding student progress, school wide goals and support activities.
- Encouraging Parent Involvement: Parents have diverse and meaningful roles in the school community and their children's achievement.
- Creating Welcoming Schools: Creating a welcoming, positive school climate with the commitment of the entire school community.
- Partnering for School Success: School engages families in setting high expectations for students and actively partners with parents to prepare students for their next level.
- Collaborating Effectively: School community works together to make decisions about the academic and personal growth of students through school wide goals. School fosters collaborations with community-based organizations to create a vibrant, fulfilling environment for students and families.

These standards are also consistent with the sixth tenet on parent engagement. Beginning this year, schools will have an opportunity to receive training through Parent Academy which is designed to build and enhance capacity within our school communities for effective home-school partnerships and will feature borough-wide training sessions for families. For more information about Parent Academy, please visit the Department's website at www.nycparentacademy.org and/or contact the Division of Family and Community Engagement at (212) 374-4118.

Public School Choice

Public School Choice is required for all Priority and Focus Schools. LEA's must provide all students in identified schools with the option to transfer to another public school in good standing, and provide/pay for transportation to the receiving schools. A child who transfers may remain in the receiving school until the child has completed the highest grade in that school.

Supplemental Education Services

The NYCDOE will no longer provide Supplemental Education Services (SES). Schools that choose to provide academic remediation can select from an array of contracted vendors, including those that provide expanded learning time.

If a school chooses to provide expanded learning time to students, they would use the Multiple Task Award Contract (MTAC) utility to get the best vendor for their needs. Using the MTAC utility schools would:

- Solicit "bids" from providers whose programs meet the needs and goals of their school. The solicitations would articulate the desired program design, students served, services needed, start and end dates and schedules.
- Find providers interested in working with their school. Providers would respond by submitting a proposal outlining the services they can give to the school and how the services will be rendered.
- Use the utility's prescribed rating sheet to document their selection.
- Once the providers have been selected and a purchase order has been issued, schools would notify the Division of Contracts and Purchasing as to the provider, program and schedule that has been arranged so that fingerprinting and other requirements will be managed centrally.
- All services will be offered on school property; vendors will be required to budget and pay for extended use and security as required.

A list of ELT vendors can be found in Appendix C.

In addition to implementing an Expanded Learning Time programs, schools can create programs aligned to the allowable activities. These services can also be procured using the MTAC process.

Galaxy Requirements

As funds are scheduled, schools will need to select one of the brief activity descriptions summarized on the list below in the "Program" drop-down field in Galaxy. This will demonstrate compliance with allowable activities, as described in detail in Appendix A.

- PF Common Core State Standards
- PF NYS Standards and Assessments
- PF Positive Behavior Management Programs
- PF Response to Intervention (RTI)
- PF Career and Technical Education (CTE)
- PF Academic Intervention Services (AIS)
- PF Advance Placement/International Baccalaureate (AP/IB)
- PF Advance International Certificate of Education (AICE)
- PF International General Certificate of Secondary Education (IGCSE)
- PF College and Career Readiness
- PF Expanded Learning Time
- PF Inquiry Teams
- PF Parent Engagement
- PF Supporting Great Teachers and Leaders

Supplemental Compensation:

Schools can provide supplemental compensation to support:

- Per session activities
- Training rate
- Hiring F-status staff
- Prep period coverage
- Per Diem

Payments to staff must be done in accordance with collective bargaining agreements, and are processed through the regular bulk job and timekeeping system. Refer to Appendix A: Allowable Activities for Improvements List of Allowable Activities for Improvement Set-Aside Requirement, Section D: Great Teachers and Leaders for detailed examples of allowable services.

School Comprehensive Education Plan (SCEP)

Priority and Focus Schools are required to construct a School Comprehensive Education Plan (SCEP). The SCEP will be submitted as part of the District Comprehensive Improvement Plan (DCIP) that addresses all of the tenets outlined in the Diagnostic Tool for School and District Effectiveness (DTSDE).

Required school plans should be based on the findings and recommendations contained in the most recent School Quality Review (SQR), External School Curriculum Audit (ESCA), School Curriculum Readiness Audit (SCRA), Joint Intervention Team (JIT), and/or Persistently Lowest Achieving (PLA) reports. Priority and Focus schools must also develop an action plan incorporating the goals and activities of the Quality Improvement Process (QIP), if any, related to improvement activities for the subgroup of students with disabilities

Prior to completing the SCEP, the school should conduct a needs assessment by evaluating the recommendations from all of the most recent school level reports. Recommendations should be organized according to the Six Tenets and programs and services from the list of allowable school improvement activities, which align the six tenets and the statements of practice that are embedded in the Diagnostic Tool for School and District Effectiveness. Refer to Appendix B: Six Tenets of the SCEP for detailed examples of the tenets.

The Priority and Focus School allocations will be placed in Galaxy in the following allocation categories:

- Title I Priority/Focus SWP
- Title I Priority/Focus SWP Parent Engage
- Title I Priority/Focus TA
- Title I Priority/Focus TA Parent Engage
- Priority/Focus Non-Title I
- Priority/Focus Parent Engage Non-Title I

Budgets must be scheduled in Galaxy by November 9, 2012

We aim for excellence and provide high quality differentiated supports for schools in order to improve learning outcomes for all students. Our goal is to empower school leaders, teachers and staff to prepare and lead our students towards college and career readiness. Organizational Structure: An assigned "instructional point" provides direct support for the school. Professional development is not a folder of materials or an isolated event - it is a process. The question is, "How do I put wheels on this and get it on the road to mobilize capacity." Special Expertise: We ensure supports are in place for students and provide assistance with many systems. Through our ongoing commitment to collaboration and excellence, we will continue to provide the highest level of instructional and operational support possible to our network schools. Organizational Structure: The network has organized its structure under two distinct categories, instruction and operations, in order to provide seamless support to our schools. In addition, each school is assigned an Achievement Coach that visits frequently to provide PD that supports the CIE. Also, support to each school is customized through a workplan developed jointly by the principal and the network team. The workplan addresses areas of need based on the school's Quality Review, Progress Report, budget, and other accountability measures. Special Expertise: Eighteen middle schools from our network are participating in the MSQI pilot program that focuses on reading strategies such as Guided and Reciprocal Reading, Socratic Seminar and intervention programs such as Ach.3000, Access Code, Just Words and Wilson. ## A. School Overview

i. School vision, mission, and goals of this plan

School Vision: PS 123 is committed to creating an educational environment, supported by the use of 21st century technology, where children, parents, and staff from diverse ethnic, cultural, linguistic and economic backgrounds can work together with community partners to achieve a truly integrated, nurturing and academically rigorous school community where students will be prepared for post-secondary education and careers.

SIG Goal: At the end of three years of implementation of its SIG plan, PS 123 will have improved teaching practice and all aspects of effective learning (integration of 21st century instructional technology, standards-aligned rigorous curriculum, student support structures, parent and community involvement) thereby creating a learning environment that provides a rigorous, personalized educational experience that meets the instructional and social/emotional needs of all students, that features high expectations for all, and meaningfully engages parents and community.

ii. School plan to achieve its vision, mission, and goals

PS 123 will achieve its vision and mission by:

- empowering visionary leaders who can enhance teaching practice and establishing a strong culture of teaching and learning that leads to high academic outcomes for all students through a system of continuous and sustainable school improvement (Leadership Development)
- adopting a rigorous and coherent curricula and assessments that are appropriately aligned to the Common Core Learning Standards (New Curriculum)
- employing an instructional approach that includes the use of 21st century technology to address students' varied learning styles, and to differentiate instruction (New Instructional Approach)
- utilizing data to inform teachers' use of strategic practice and decision making that addresses the gap between what students know and need to learn (Data Driven Instruction)
- identifying, promoting and supporting students' social and emotional development through systems and experiences that lead to healthy relationships and a safe, respectful environment that is conducive to learning (Student Support Services)
- creating a culture of partnerships where families, community members, school staff and key educational organizations work together to share the responsibility for student academic progress and social/emotional growth and well-being (Community Engagement)
- providing authentic, job-embedded professional development to improve teacher practice (Professional Development)

B. Assessing the Needs of the School Systems, Structures, Policies, and Students

i. School-level Baseline Data and Target-Setting Chart (Attachment B).

ii. Description of school's student population and needs of sub-groups

PS 123 is a Title I elementary/middle school serving 676 students in grades PreK – 8. The demographics of its student population are illustrated in the chart below.

Student Demographics

Minority	97% (58% Black, 39% Hispanic)
Free Lunch	66%

English Language Learners	25%*
Special Needs Students	15.5% <sup>1</sup>
Students in Temporary Housing	10.2%

*ELLs home languages are primarily Spanish and varied African dialects (Bambara, Fulani, Malinke, Mandinka, Soninke, and Wolof.)

The school services twelve neighborhood shelters and a large low-income housing project. Many of these students demonstrate at-risk behaviors that interfere with their academic success. They need an empathetic, supportive, and structured teaching and learning environment to foster a sense of stability, clear expectations, while also creating a refuge for children and families. Approximately, eighty-five percent of these students from temporary housing developments are not meeting state standards. Many of the students will be the first in their families to attend college. For these students, school represents a way out of the cycle of poverty and movement into a life style they have only been able to read about.

According to the 2011-2012 NYS Accountability Report, the school did not meet Adequate Yearly Progress across all testing grades. English Language Arts and Math state test results in third through eighth grade range between 10.2% to 35.2% percent of students scoring at Levels Three and Four. Only 21% of students in testing grades are currently meeting proficiency levels in English Language Arts. Furthermore, none of the accountability groups made Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP).

Student Achievement

	Minority	Special Ed.	ELLs
English Language Arts	23%	7%	15%
Mathematics	30%	14%	23%

It is evident a comprehensive approach to curriculum, assessment practices and teacher effectiveness is necessary. All teacher evaluation and development work described in this plan will be governed by NYSED policy that was still forthcoming at the time of this plan's writing. Teachers also recognize the need for change and are in support of this improvement plan. Providing a well-rounded school environment offering academically rigorous curriculum, differentiated instruction augmented by technology, targeted intervention and a rich aesthetics program involving art, chess, and music will enhance the lives of students, motivate them to see school as an educational hub of innovation and support, and prepare them for high school and post-secondary education.

i. Diagnostic school review of the school conducted by the district or NYSED

In December, 2012, the NYC Department of Education conducted a Quality Review of the school which is designed to look behind a school's performance statistics and assist the NYCDOE in raising student achievement. During the review, the external evaluator visits classrooms, talks with school leaders, and uses a rubric to evaluate how well the school is organized to support student achievement.

ii. Results from systematic school review

Note: Quality Review was conducted before the new principal was assigned to the school. Many of the factors that are cited as needing to be improved have already begun to be addressed.

December 2012 Quality Review Findings

What The School Does Well	What The School Needs to Improve
• P.3-Students embrace the school's theme	• P.5-It is not the practice for teachers to prepare

“college is not a dream, it’s the plan” and a deep sense of trust and respect permeates the school community. Students and parents feel that they can turn to teachers, the guidance counselor and social workers to help resolve personal issues and concerns that are interfering with learning. Students serve on the Principal’s Advisory Council, which helps support, the development of leadership skills and bolster self-esteem. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• P.3-The school Pupil Personnel Committee meets weekly. Staff knows individual students by name and has developed close relationships. The school’s partnership with Graham Windham helps provide social/emotional support to students and their families.</li> <li>• P.3-Targeted efforts have resulted in attendance growth from previous years and a decrease in the number of tardy students and a decline in the referral rate to citywide agencies.</li> <li>• P.4-School leaders develop and share clearly articulated goals with the school community.</li> <li>• P.4-School staff is developing practices to analyze data to provide them with a view of student performance resulting in interventions to positively impact achievement.</li> </ul>	lessons that target specific needs and strengths of students. They also do not employ strategies that address a range of student ability levels. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• P.5-Teachers do not always use formative data to make assignments or develop appropriately challenging tasks. Lessons do not demonstrate sufficient engagement in higher order thinking so that meaningful work products demonstrate activities that stretch the thinking of all learners.</li> <li>• P.5-Teachers do not consistently employ open-ended questions to spark discussions. Thought provoking questions and conversations that give students the chance to support their views with evidence, change their minds, and use questions as a way to learn more, are not yet the norm across grades.</li> <li>• P.5-School leaders do not provide effective feedback to teachers; do not cite evidence from student work, instructional practice or other data sets. Teachers do not receive actionable feedback. (It is important to note that as of April 1, 2013, a new principal has been assigned to the school.)</li> <li>• P.5-School leaders do not consistently use observation data and teacher input to drive professional development. Consequently there are missed opportunities to help teachers achieve optimal levels of performance and reach their own person goals and impact student learning.</li> <li>• P.6-Curriculum is not aligned with key standards and Common Core learning tasks that increase rigor and cognitively engage all learners. Texts are not always sequenced to build knowledge about specific topics and subjects and tasks are not always adequately challenging for the grade resulting in an achievement gap across multiple levels.</li> </ul>

In addition to the needs highlighted by the Quality Review, the school recognizes the following needs. (Needs were defined based on classroom observations, informal observations and surveys, and feedback from teachers, Network personnel, Leadership Team members and at Administrative Team meetings).

- School leadership needs to take a more active role in moving the school forward so that it can achieve its vision and mission.
- School leadership needs personalized training in curriculum and instruction to be able to assist teachers in improving instruction.

- Teachers and other staff members need to develop the skills needed to be able to address the individual academic and social/emotional needs of all students.
- Staff needs to implement a more effective parent engagement program that attracts parents to the school and also provides them with services they may need (e.g. ESL classes).
- There is a dearth of up-to-date, standards aligned instructional materials, as well modern technology available across all grades.

Priority areas of identified needs for school's improvement

At meetings with the Leadership Team, and in preparation for this grant, the school has prioritized the following needs:

1. Implement a targeted instructional program supported by in-depth use of technology
2. Adopt a rigorous curriculum aligned to the Common Core Standards supported by appropriate instructional materials.
3. Provide staff with job-embedded, authentic professional development opportunities so they have the skills they need to differentiate instruction that meets the educational needs of and challenges all students, and also provide students with the social/emotional supports they need.
4. Partner with key organizations to provide professional development, social service, extracurricular arts and sports enrichment programs
5. Strengthen the home/school connection, and provide parents with enrichment and support.

C. School Model and Rationale

i. Model rationale and key school design elements

The school was selected for the Transformation model based on improvement practices already in place or planned that aligned with the federal principles for school turnaround. By rapidly strengthening the supports available to the school, the Transformation model will allow the school to move toward a stronger culture of teaching and learning.

The PS 123 community is clearly positioned to benefit from a SIG grant award and make optimal use of SIG funding support.

- A new principal who has an instructional vision for the school, and is knowledgeable about how to realize the vision has just been assigned.
- Teachers are hard-working, recognize their pedagogical needs, and are eager to learn more effective instructional techniques.<sup>2</sup>
- The school climate is positive; teachers, students and parents are anxious for improvement; the SLT shares the principal's vision for PS 123 and are ready to embark on the journey.

The SIG school improvement plan described in this proposal was developed by the new principal and the school community (teachers, parents, assistant principals) , and is more specific and includes more details than the SCEP, which was written before the new principal was assigned. The SCEP will be updated to be aligned with activities specified in the SIG plan. The SIG plan is based on the findings of the latest Quality Review and the additional needs developed by the school's SIG planning group. The plan, which is research-based and aligned to the NYSED Diagnostic Tool for School and District Effectiveness (DTSDE), addresses:

<sup>2</sup> In support of the new principal's instructional plan to provide small group instruction, a current UFT School Based Option vote resulted in 82% of teachers voting for a new instructional schedule which will begin to provide targeted instruction during two-fifty minute blocks and one fifty minute session for inquiry.

- the instructional and socio/emotional needs of all students (including special education students and ELLs),
- integration of instructional technology to address teaching and learning, student assessment and targeted interventions, and teacher training
- the training needs of teachers and school leaders,
- the organizational changes that will improve staff performance, teacher effectiveness and school operations. All teacher evaluation and development work described in this plan will be governed by NYSED policy that was still forthcoming at the time of this plan's writing.
- the need to further engage the diverse parent community

The plan will build on the school's strengths (i.e. supportive and trusting climate, hard-working and motivated teachers and leaders, strong relationships with effective partners, and eager parent population). The plan includes the following research-based features. Specifics regarding all aspects of the plan appear later in this document in section H-Educational Plan.

Curriculum – A new, standards-aligned rigorous curriculum, based on the NYSED curriculum modules in ELA and math will be implemented. The curriculum is planned according to the principles of the Universal Design for Learning (UDL), includes scaffolded teaching/learning experiences, and incorporates strategies and resources to address all learners.<sup>3</sup> Curricular materials selected support the pedagogical shifts in ELA and Mathematics described in the Common Core State Standards (CCSS) as synthesized by Achieve the Core.<sup>4</sup> The curriculum will address the Quality Review findings regarding lack of rigor and differentiation in classrooms and will be updated based on student outcomes observed by teachers and other data sources.

Arts - The PS 123 improvement plan includes launching an arts program. Involvement in the arts is associated with gains in math, reading, cognitive ability, critical thinking and verbal skills. Arts learning can also improve motivation, concentration, confidence, and teamwork.<sup>5</sup> The arts also provide a vehicle for expression for ELLs and special education students who may have difficulty making themselves understood with spoken and written language.

Robotics – A successful Robotics Program will be re-established in the school. Incorporating many subject areas (math, science, writing, reading, speaking), Robotics build inquiry skills, motivates students, increases logic and promotes higher order thinking skills.

Instruction – Through in-house school leaders and coaches, and through relationships with effective partners (described in Section F, i-Partnerships), a new way of approaching instruction based on the Charlotte Danielson's Framework for Teaching<sup>6</sup> will be implemented. The program, grounded in a constructivist view of learning and teaching, is clustered into four domains of teaching responsibility: 1)planning and preparation, 2) classroom environment, 3) instruction, 4)professional responsibilities. The teaching practices are grounded in a solid research base and associated with improved student learning and are aligned with the NYSED Teaching Standards (e.g. collaborative inquiry, looking at <sup>4</sup> Shifts in ELA: 1)Building knowledge through content-rich nonfiction, 2)Reading, writing and speaking grounded in evidence from text, 3)Regular practice with complex text and its academic language. Shifts in Math: 1)Focus strongly where the standards focus, 2)Coherence – think across grades and link to major topics within grades, 3)Rigor: major topics (conceptual understanding, procedural skill and fluency, application) with equal intensity.

A Technology-Rich School: To increase student engagement, address different learning styles, and differentiate instruction to meet individual student needs, technology will be the structure upon which the instructional program is built (smart boards, laptops, iPads, technology based data driven instruction and assessment). Used to “support both teaching and learning, technology infuses classrooms with varied learning tools, expands experiences and learning, increases student motivation and accelerates learning.”<sup>7</sup> Technology also enables student learning to be assessed with specific feedback made available to teachers, thereby informing instructional practice. With technology, teachers can

- motivate students for learning
- receive reliable, objective information
- prepare students for college and career
- keep all students challenged

Note: electrical upgrades required to utilize extensive technology materials are scheduled to be made this summer (2013).

Use of Time – As a Priority School, PS 123 will offer students the opportunity to spend more time on task (i.e. focused on learning). Therefore, in order for the additional time to engage children and promote increased learning, improving the quality of instruction is just as important as increasing the time for it.<sup>8</sup> As allowed by the Board of Regents Standards for Expanded Learning Time<sup>9</sup>, the expanded learning time will not be limited to tutoring services but will include a multiple of instructional strategies and approaches before, during and after school, that include tutoring, enrichment, talent development, exploration, robotics. With the goal of having the extended day programs be a true extension of the school day, extended day services will be provided primarily by PS 123 staff, (many times the student’s classroom teacher) , who know children well and can address students’ various and special needs. Additionally, the after-school teachers will have multiple opportunities to share student progress with regular classroom teachers during collaborative inquiry sessions, professional development sessions and at grade meetings.

Data Driven Instruction (DDI) – The challenge of ensuring effective use of data to drive instruction, lies in providing sufficient and current data and in training teachers to utilize available data. The PS 123 improvement plan includes utilizing online and computer formative assessments that are administered regularly during the school year, regularly examining student work, and in providing many opportunities (workshops, collaborative inquiry sessions, grade meetings) for teachers to be trained in examining data and utilizing it to drive instruction.

Because DDI is a systematic approach to improving student learning, PS 123 will train all personnel in effectively utilizing existing NYCDOE Interim Assessments as a systematic approach to close achievement gaps and improve student learning. But the school will also utilize the formative, online assessments that are built into the curriculum that has been carefully selected (please see section H-i for more details.) The DDI cycle will include Assessment, Analysis, and Action.<sup>10</sup> Engage NY’s online resource, “What to Do When There’s a 2?” will be used as a reference in designing and implementing staff training, as well as the Implementation Rubric – Data Driven Instruction and Assessment developed by Paul Santoyo and New Leaders for New Schools.

Student Support – As promulgated by the USDOE, student support services include prevention, intervention, transition and follow-up services for students and families. Student support services professionals will provide direct services for all children and youth, especially those who are experiencing problems that create barriers to learning. Direct services will include remediation, counseling, consultation and individual assessment. In addition, student support services personnel will provide in-service training, parent education, community collaboration and carry out student service program management.

At PS 123, Student Support Services will be aligned with NYSED Part 100.2 Regulations on Academic Intervention Services (AIS) designed around Response to Intervention (RTI). The RTI model consists of three tiers of instructional processes, which are differentiated in intensity and frequency of instruction.<sup>11</sup> Support services will take place during the regular school day (in both push-in and pull-out models) and during extended day activities.

The goal of the AIS and RTI supports is to foster the development of confidence in all students, and to provide them with the academic foundation necessary to reach their maximum potential and to enjoy a successful experience in higher education. PS123 will establish an RTI team (made up of AIS teachers and counselors) that provides students with the developmentally appropriate, individualized, and challenging support they need as they work to achieve the Common Core Standards in language arts literacy and math - there is no “one size fits all”.

School Climate – Research has indicated schools that have mastered methods of positive school climate and discipline show statistically large counts of student achievement across grade levels<sup>12</sup> And there is an association between positive school climate and student achievement.<sup>13</sup> The PS 123 philosophy of school climate is based on the research done by the National School Climate Center.

PS 123 will enhance its already positive school climate through

- Use of a curriculum and instructional strategies supported by technology that addresses individual student needs and learning styles, thereby motivating students, building self-esteem, and reducing inappropriate behaviors
- School Collaborative Inquiry Groups – teachers meet weekly to discuss students’ progress and needs
- Counselors and social workers (staff and partners) who will work with students and train teachers in effective social/emotional support strategies
- Increased opportunities for parents to become involved in their children’s education

Parent/Community Engagement – In promoting achievement across the elementary and middle levels, the school community recognizes the parent as the child’s first teacher, and that the parent’s continued involvement is essential for the success of the learner. As part of the school’s structure and daily practice, PS 123 plans to implement a school wide system that incorporates parent involvement in teachers/staff daily routines. When teachers make parent involvement part of their regular teaching practice, parents increase their interactions with their children at home, feel more positive about their abilities to help their children, and students improve their attitudes, attendance and achievement.<sup>14</sup>

PS 123 is already implementing activities that encourage parent/community engagement, and parents are included as valuable members of the school community. However, in recent years, the number of immigrant parents has increased, presenting new challenges, and a toolbox of newly designed parent activities needs to be developed to attract this group of parents. These activities include ESL classes for parents, technology training, cultural and holiday celebrations, and parent workshops at different times of the day that include Spanish translators.

ii. Process for model selection and stakeholder engagement

A dedicated cross-divisional work group is in place to recommend whole school reform models for the NYCDOE's 122 Priority Schools. The work group met weekly beginning in September 2013 to review school data points and alignment to one of the three intervention options: the School Improvement Grant plan, School Innovation Fund plan, or School Comprehensive Education Plan (SCEP) crosswalk. In early 2013, the work group began to focus specifically on examining candidates for the Transformation model. The group also consulted with the Clusters and Networks for feedback on any early wins or progress seen from supports already provided, or discussions they have had with principals. Schools that did not yet have the capacity or momentum to drive change under the model were removed from consideration. The group also removed schools that are already making huge strides in improving student outcomes and did not necessarily need the model to further enhance its efforts. Once the work group solidified its list of schools proposed for Transformation in April 2013, schools were officially notified about their eligibility to apply for the Transformation model and began working on their applications in late April. Information on stakeholder consultation and collaboration for the plan development is described in Section G. of the District-level plan and Section J. in the School-level plan.

D. School Leadership

i. Characteristics and core competencies sought for school principal

M123 has until recently been under the leadership of a veteran principal whose expertise was not in instruction. Her approach to curriculum and professional development was, to say the least, haphazard. Teachers were shuttled from program to program with little consistency or support. What M123 most grievously needs is a principal who is capable of looking at data and determining the appropriate professional development approach. The individual should have strong organizational skills, as well as expertise in observing and providing actionable feedback to teachers.

ii. Principal's biography

Melitina Hernandez became principal of M123 mid-year, beginning in April after the unexpected departure of the previous principal. Prior to this appointment, she had spent four years as the assistant principal of P.S./I.S. 171 in District 4, another Title 1 K-8 school. In this role, she was largely responsible for organizing curriculum and professional development for elementary grades. During her tenure (2009-2013), the school earned consecutive A grades on their Progress Report, and a Well Developed on their last Quality Review.

Though she has come to M123 only recently, Ms. Hernandez's track record working at a similar school is exceptionally strong. In addition to having exceptional organizational skills, her expertise is in instruction – and 123 is a school that has had an inconsistent approach to planning curriculum. If awarded a SIG Grant, she would have the resources to make dramatic shifts and further the progress students at the school have already begun to make.

iii. Supporting leadership job description and duties aligned to the needs of the school.

Working closely with the DOE’s existing Cluster and Network Teams that support all schools, the School Implementation Manager serves as the project manager ensuring that schools and networks receive appropriate guidance, technical assistance, and coaching in order to improve outcomes for students and pedagogical practices through implementation of the identified intervention model. Among other responsibilities, the SIM is also responsible for managing the accountability structures put in place to assure ongoing monitoring and intervention in schools undertaking the intervention models, and are responsible for meeting federal reporting requirements related to schools’ interim and summative performance.

iv. Current supporting leadership profile for model and strategies for plan buy-in

In addition to the assistant principals, the following personnel will provide supporting leadership to the principal and assistant principals. Working as a newly created team, and to ensure buy-in, they will serve as members of the Weekly Instructional Cabinet and/or School Leadership Team where they will have opportunities to provide input and feedback. Maintaining constant communication through these meetings will ensure continued buy-in from members of the team.

Position	Leadership Profile
Literacy Coach(es) (one new position) Math Coach Early Childhood Coach (new position) Technology Coach (new position)	The coaching team will provide in-class support and workshop training to classroom teachers regarding improving instruction and effective implementation of the new curriculum. Working as a team, they will help teachers implement cross-curricular project-based learning experiences supported by technology (online teacher and student resources, formative assessments) and based on formative assessments. They will serve as members of the Weekly Instructional Cabinet where they will help design training supports for individual teachers. Through logs and reports, they will provide “on the ground” information to the principal and assistant principals regarding teacher needs and progress.
School Counselor, Social Worker, Dean	The social/emotional support team will continue to work with students and families that need support to be able to be successful in school. They will meet regularly with school leaders, classroom teachers, and coaches to ensure a coordinated and effective approach to providing needed supports.
Grant Manager	The grant manager will coordinate all aspects of the grant, including data collection, implementation reports, staff feedback and evaluation instruments. Assisted by the business manager, the grant manager will also monitor grant expenditures to ensure fidelity to the proposal. The manager will work closely with grant partners and grant personnel (e.g. coaches) to document activities.
Data Specialist	The data specialist will analyze current student data and provide information to the principal and staff regarding assessment results. The specialist will also provide training to classroom teachers on administering and analyzing formative data available either through the NYCDOE Interim Assessments, or by online data reports provided by the curriculum materials (e.g. Success Maker)

i. Current school staff overview and changes needed for model

The staff at PS 123 is caring, hard-working and eager to learn. However, the current staffing positions need to be revised to improve student performance. This includes adding new positions, filling vacant positions, redefining job descriptions, supporting staff with ongoing development, and reassigning existing staff to different positions. The following chart illustrates the changes in organization that will be implemented under this SIG plan.

Existing Staffing Condition	Positive Changes to be Made in 2013-2014
Staff are not achieving results in terms of student performance because they have not been appropriately supervised, nor have they been given the opportunities and guidance they need to learn how to meet the needs of the student population at the school.	As teachers utilize a new standards-based curriculum, they will be supported with job-embedded and outside professional development providers, and job-embedded coaching from the new Principal and Assistant Principal for Instruction that will hone their teaching and student support skills.
With only one guidance counselor on staff, there is not enough support personnel to provide services (e.g. counseling, case management, parent outreach) to the number of students who require them.	An additional guidance counselor will be hired at no cost to the grant.
Teachers are not using technology at all in the classroom to support, differentiate and enhance learning.	New classroom-based technology will be purchased. In addition to professional development provided by partners, a new technology coaching position will be created to ensure that the technology is utilized effectively by providing additional job embedded professional development to the teachers and leadership.
There are positions that are filled with non-licensed personnel, and positions that are not filled at all that are being covered by other staff members such as the literacy coach.	Using the NYCDOE Open Hire system, the principal will interview and hire licensed teachers in Middle School Spanish, ELA/Humanities, Math and Gym.
Cluster positions have not been created in areas of need in the school. For example, there is no technology cluster and the computer lab remains unused. Additionally, some cluster teaching positions remain unfilled with cluster coverages are being provided by per diem substitute teachers, resulting in non-productive classroom time.	New cluster positions will be created in library/technology, gym and art. Using the Open Hire System, teachers will be hired during the summer to fill these positions. Coaches provide training for the new cluster teachers.
Vacancies exist at the elementary level.	Teachers will be hired to fill vacant positions at the elementary level. Middle school teachers who are working out of license can be assigned to these positions also.
Current Assistant Principals are not being utilized appropriately in their areas of talent and skill. Additionally, they have expressed a need	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Both Assistant Principals will receive extensive training by the consultant from Literacy Support Systems in standards based</li> </ul>

for additional and refined training in Common Core Standards, Instructional Shifts and curriculum planning.	curriculum design, differentiated instructional strategies, and Charlotte Danielson's Framework for Teaching. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A third Assistant Principal with expertise in curriculum and instruction will be hired to work with teaching staff and the other Assistant Principals to upgrade the instructional program in the school (at no cost to the grant).</li> <li>• The roles of the two current assistant principals will be redesigned so that they can provide support to the teaching staff in areas in which they have expertise. The first assistant principal with a guidance/special education background will be assigned to supervise and support the teachers of special education. The second assistant principal with expertise in organization and old students will be assigned to supervise and support the middle school staff.</li> </ul>
Teaching staff are not skilled in developing rigorous unit and lesson plans that are aligned with the Common Core Standards. Additionally, teachers do not fully understand how to differentiate instruction to meet individual needs.	Professional development for staff and assistant principals will begin in the summer 2013 with a Staff Institute. At this institute, the consultant from Literacy Support Systems, along with the new principal will train the staff , including newly hired coaches on the Common Core Standards supported by appropriate instructional strategies. Literacy Support Systems, Tequipment, school coaches, and school leaders will provide follow-up when school opens and during the school year to ensure that CCSS are being utilized effectively.
There are insufficient personnel available to provide job-embedded onsite coaching for teachers in the classroom.	Full time literacy and math coaches will be hired to support grades 3-8. An additional early childhood coach will focus on improving the instructional program in the primary grades K-2. The coach to be hired will demonstrate an expertise in Early Childhood Instruction. A technology coach will be hired to support teachers in the use of the wealth of technology that will be provided through the grant. These coaches will be maintained after SIG funding has ended by re-allocating Tax Levy and Title I funds that are coming to the school.

ii. Characteristics and core competencies of instructional staff to meet student needs

When hiring new staff for the 2013 – 2014 school year, the principal will look for personnel who have a clear understanding of and are able to base their teaching on Charlotte Danielson’s Framework for Teaching , and demonstrate a willingness to learn and add technology to their daily practice. New personnel will understand and be able to communicate teacher and student behaviors as well as incorporate teaching artifacts that are aligned with Danielson’s Domains. All teacher evaluation and development work described in this plan will be governed by NYSED policy that was still forthcoming at the time of this plan's writing.

iii. Process and action steps taken to inform existing instructional staff about model

Staff will be informed and consulted through School Leadership Team Meetings, Faculty Conferences, Grade Conferences, weekly Collaborative Inquiry Groups and through one-on-one conferences with school leaders. Instructional faculty will not only be informed of the model being implemented, they will have opportunities for input during the launch of the model and during its rollout

iv. Formal hiring mechanisms for instructional staff, strategies to assign necessary staff

A citywide “open market” staff hiring and transfer system is available every year from spring through summer that principals may use to identify school pedagogical staff seeking transfers as well as those who wish to specific vacancies or schools. Principals are thus able to recruit, screen, and select instructional staff new to their schools based on need. While principals have discretion over the schools’ budget and staffing decisions, one barrier that schools may face are hiring restrictions set by the district for certain subject areas, grade levels, and titles or licenses. Exceptions are given in certain cases based on critical needs such as for high-need subject areas and new schools. Schools are also supported by the human resources directors from their networks on budgeting, recruiting and hiring procedures. In addition, all principals have access to online human resources portal for up-to-date data and activities related to talent management. Similarly, resources are available to instructional staff on recruitment fairs, workshops, school vacancies, transfer options, as well as professional development, citywide award programs, and leadership opportunities to promote staff retention.

PS 123 will adhere to all NYCDOE staff selection and retention processes. It is anticipated that skilled staff will be identified utilizing the NYCDOE Open Hire structure. Principal and Assistant Principals will form the hiring committee to establish criteria and interview questions for each position posted and filled. The principal will develop an individualized, comprehensive plan for providing assistance for those staff who are not performing satisfactorily. If indicated, the principal will follow NYCDOE and UFT guidelines and proceed with having staff removed from the school.

F. Partnerships

i. Partner organizations working with school and their roles under SIG

PS 123 has established a number of effective partnerships over the years. As part of its comprehensive plan for improvement, additional partnerships are being established that will provide support for students and staff in a number of areas. All partnerships supported with SIG funding are ARRA approved vendors.

Vendor	Description and Nature of Partnership
Wilson Reading	The Wilson Reading System is a research-based, highly structured remedial program that directly teaches the structure of the language to students who have difficulty learning with other teaching strategies, or who

	may require multisensory instruction. Demonstrating success for more than 20 years, Wilson Reading gives teachers the tools and confidence they need to work with even the most challenged reader, as well as ELLs and Special Education students. Criterion based assessments are built into the program to measure student progress and provide feedback for teachers. Wilson Reading will be utilized during the regular school day as well as during extended day activities. PS 123 teachers will be trained in Wilson Reading strategies to be used in their classrooms.
Equipment	Equipment is the largest supplier of classroom white boards, interactive projectors, tablets, e-learning platforms, and educational software. With the addition of Smart Boards, Document Cameras and laptops, students will interact with the technology to enhance learning. Equipment will not only supply white boards and digital cameras for each classroom, they will become a true partner in incorporating technology into the curriculum and instructional program because they will also provide training for staff in the authentic use of the white boards to support the school's new standards aligned rigorous curriculum. Professional development activities will take place during the day, in classrooms with teachers, and after school at professional development sessions. Equipment will assist in providing feedback of staff in supporting leadership with progress towards effectively utilizing technology in daily practice. (Equipment's professional development efforts will be supported by the newly hired Technology Coach.)
Literacy Systems	Support Literacy Support Systems is an organization formed and staffed by seasoned consultants who have knowledge and experience in New York City schools. It provides professional development services in supporting and developing sound practices in all aspects of school reform, literacy curriculum, staff training, and at-risk and gifted student supports. At PS 123, the Literacy Support Systems consultant will provide training (Summer Institute and yearlong coaching) for school leaders and teachers to deepen their knowledge and understanding of the Danielson Framework for Teaching, Common Core Learning Standards, Webb's Depth of Knowledge, Instructional Shifts, and the Project-based approach. They will also support school leaders in supervising and evaluating staff, looking at student work, utilizing graphic organizers and observe and record teaching practice.
JDL Project Based Learning	JDL has demonstrated success in assisting teachers to integrate technology into the standards based curriculum via inquiry-based, thematic, multidisciplinary projects. With PS 123's focus on becoming a 21st century technology focused school, it is essential that all the new technology be utilized appropriately and daily. JDL will provide workshops and job-embedded professional development professional development. They will also provide training for the technology coach who will support the teachers and leadership when the JDL trainer is not in the school, as well as when SIG funding has ended.
Ramapo for Children	Already a partner at PS 123, Ramapo for Children provides direct counseling service to youths and training for teachers to build students'

	social/emotional well-being. The Ramapo for Children program will be expanded with SIG funding. Focused on children who face obstacles to learning, including children with special needs, Ramapo provides the support they need to help them succeed in the classroom, at home and in life. In addition to direct service to children, Ramapo for Children will provide training for staff thereby building capacity after the funding has ended.
Graham Windham	Graham Windham is already established at PS 123 and will continue its successful partnership with the school as a valued partner during the entire school improvement period at no cost to the grant. They help children and families by providing critical, affirming, and life-sustaining support. Graham Wyndham is committed to strength based services, utilizing a child's and family's existing competencies and ability to shape and implement their individual family service plans. Working closely with school leaders and teachers, they will continue to be a major contributor to building a safe and secure environment where children's social/emotional needs are met.
Studio In a School (SIAS)	SIAS has developed a unique expertise in the field of arts education, providing arts education to more than 30,000 students per year. SIAS will provide two working artists with a program tailored to the specific needs of the school. PS123 will establish a dedicated art studio for this partnership. Classroom teachers do not simply drop their students off for art instruction. Instead, they too participate in the session - often working with the Studio in a School instructor to reinforce academic subjects while being trained in art instructional strategies.
Carmel Hill Fund Partnership: Renaissance Learning	(No Cost to Grant) The Carmel Hill Fund Education Program is a non-profit organization whose mission is to foster the love of reading in children by providing educators with the means to improve their students' reading ability. The Carmel Hill Fund Education Program's principal focus is its provision of the Accelerated Reader (AR) Enterprise program for its partner schools. AR is a progress-monitoring software tool that enables schools to monitor the quantity and quality of their students' reading practice. AR also motivates students to read a greater quantity of books with more attention to their comprehension of written material, all the while exposing children to new genres and styles of literature. Accelerated Reader reports are available for principals, literacy coaches and teachers to monitor student progress one of the main components of the school's new data reporting. Teachers will be supported in the use of AR by the literacy and technology coaches.
Brooklyn Historical Society	– Founded in 1863, the Brooklyn Historical Society will provide onsite content and teaching strategy workshops in upper grade classrooms focused on topics in the history and social studies (e.g. the industrial age). They will also train teachers in the use of strategies (e.g. oral history) that will make the teaching of history and social studies come alive.

ii. Evidence of Partner Effectiveness Chart (Attachment C)

iii. Partner accountability

Ongoing documentation and monitoring practices will be enhanced to ensure partner accountability.

- With school leaders and guidance personnel, partners will collaboratively develop measurable goals with action plans for services to be provided. Action plans will be reviewed on an ongoing basis and measured against activities provided and outcomes achieved. Action plans will be revised as needed during the school year.
- Partner providers will maintain logs of service, agendas, attendance sheets, copies of handouts and share them with school leaders. The Assistant Principal with a guidance/special education background will be assigned to meet regularly with partners who provide student and family support services. At these meetings they will discuss individual students’ needs, progress and future plans.
- School leaders will periodically observe partner activities in the school to ensure that high quality services are being delivered. Teacher feedback regarding activities (e.g. professional development, student support services) will be sought, since teachers are very often the best evaluator of service benefits.
- Professional development activities will be jointly designed and planned by the partner and school leaders to ensure that training activities are relevant and meet current and changing staff needs.

This collaborative planning and close monitoring of service provided by partners will enable school leaders to quickly address cases where expected outcomes are not reached. Mid-year revisions of action plans will be completed, and, in those rare cases where services are not acceptable, the partnership will be terminated.

G. Organizational Plan

i. Organizational chart - included in Attachment G

ii. Day-to-day operations under the school’s structure

New operational structures for decision-making will be established and decisions will be communicated school-wide. The newly assigned principal had been a school UFT Representative and has first-hand knowledge of positive interaction consulting strategies, which she has brought to the design of the communication structures described below.

Structure	Data Sources to Drive Discussion and Decision Making	How Results Are Communicated
Weekly grade meetings and faculty conferences	Formative assessment data; professional development feedback forms; informal classroom observations; feedback from partners	Agendas, minutes and memos; oral communication, and other communication structures (e.g. communication via technology) Written observation reports
Weekly School Collaborative Inquiry Groups (SCIG)	Formative assessment data; student work samples; examining student work protocol outcomes; teacher professional development needs feedback;	Collaborative Inquiry groups are flexible and fluid to allow for communication between and among teachers who may not be on the same grade or serve the same student population. Minutes of the group are shared with school leadership. Horizontal and vertical planning groups

iii Annual professional performance review (APPR) process

Our school will implement New York City’s newly approved APPR plan for teachers beginning in the 2013-2014 school year. Central staff and our Network team will support us with training in the new system this summer. We may revise our plans for implementation as we better understand the new evaluation system, and all elements related to principal and teacher evaluation contained in this application will be consistent with the Commissioner of Education’s determination and order dated June 1, 2013 regarding the NYC APPR, Education Law 3012-c, and NYSED regulations.

Beginning in the 2013-14 school year, teachers will select from one of two options during the Initial Planning Conference, to take place by no later than the last Friday in October: Option 1) 1 formal observation and a minimum of 3 informal observations or Option 2) A minimum of 6 informal observations. The formal observation will have a pre-observation conference where the teacher can provide up to 2 artifacts and/or a pre-observation conference form. The observation will be a full period and the teacher will be rated on the Danielson rubric. A post observation conference will be held within 20 days and a post observation report will be provided to the teacher and put into the file. Informal observations will be unannounced and a minimum of 15 minutes. Feedback will be provided after informal observations in person or using some other form of communication. A pre and post observation conference is not required, but a post observation report will be provided to the teacher and filed within 90 school days of the observation.

A summative End of Year Conference will take place between the last Friday in April and the first Friday in June. Teachers can provide artifacts for review/discussion at the Conference. Artifacts must be submitted no later than the last Friday in April. If the Principal needs more artifacts to rate a component, they must request them of the teacher. If the teacher does not provide, they will be scored as Ineffective (1) on that component. Teachers will be provided with forms including rubrics with evidence statements.

The rubric for Charlotte Danielson’s Framework for Professional Practice will be the reference point when school leaders conduct teacher observations. Prior to conducting formal and informal observations, staff will be trained in the Danielson rubric with special emphasis on expected teacher behaviors, possible student behaviors and artifacts of teaching. (The Danielson Domains of the Framework for Professional Practice are summarized above in Section Eii).

The principal of PS 123 sees the day-to-day operations (ii) as part of the APPR since assessment (iii below) as an integral part of the daily operations at the school. Therefore, the following chart and the one in response to (iv) have a great deal of overlap.

iv. Calendar of events for the 2013-2014 school year

The Central 2013-14 Teacher Evaluation and Development timeline is provided in attachment H. Overall, Initial Planning Conferences will occur in the early Fall and Summative End of Year Conference will occur by June 27. Measures of Teacher Practice will occur between the Initial Planning Conference and the first Friday in June. Our school will select local measures of student learning by September 9, and pre-tasks for NYC performance tasks and 3rd party assessments will occur by October 15. Please refer to attachment H for further detail. As discussed in section iii, we will implement the NYCDOE's newly approved APPR plan for teachers beginning in the 2013-2014 school year. We may revise our plans for implementation as we better understand the new evaluation system, and all elements related to principal and teacher evaluation contained in this application will be consistent with the Commissioner of Education's determination and order dated June 1, 2013 regarding the NYC APPR, Education Law 3012-c, and NYSED regulations.

PS 123's tentative calendar is provided below, and as discussed above may be revised to align to the Central calendar provided in attachment H. Final schedule will depend on teacher Initial Planning Conference.

H. Educational Plan

- i. Curriculum. Moving forward, PS 123 will adopt the NYCDOE Approved Common Core aligned curriculum that incorporates the Instructional Shifts. Analysis of the curriculum was conducted by the administration and teachers with support from partners, and addresses the instructional shifts as follows:

Literacy:

Helping Students Build Knowledge and Access the World (NYS CCSS Shifts 1 and 2)

- emphasizes effective literacy instruction through the use of compelling informational texts
- modules that are heavily based in Social Studies and Science content
- Moving Up the Staircase of Complexity and Academic Vocabulary (NYS CCSS Shifts 3 and 6)
- exposes students to a wide range of increasingly complex texts to build background knowledge and interest
- incorporates a high level of academic vocabulary in daily practices, word walls, language of standards and instructional delivery
- Texts chosen reflect a variety of Lexile levels, complexity of topic/concept, specific literacy standard, cultural perspectives and voice
- Supports for a diverse learners are directly addressed

Text-based Answers and Writing from Sources (NYS CCSS Shifts 4 and 5)

- emphasizes working with evidence, including students self-assessing, learning to ask strong text-dependent strategic questions as students read, and do research for a real purpose.

- during daily instruction students will be asked to read and reread, read closely a third time to ask and answer questions, make inferences and synthesize information
- reading challenging texts in order to become a more proficient and independent reader
- students write daily to make an argument, support point of view based on text evidence
- all end of unit performance tasks are research projects, asking students to relate to real world experiences and events which include narrative, informational and opinion-based writing.

Mathematics:

Focus strongly where the CCSS focus - Focuses deeply on the major work outlined in the CCLS at each grade level so that students gain strong foundations including (NYS CCSS Shift 1)

- solid conceptual understanding,
- high degree of procedural skill and fluency
- ability to apply math they know to solve problems inside and outside the math classroom

Coherence across grades (NYS CCSS Shift 2)

- thinking across grades
- linking major topics

Rigor requiring fluency, application and deep understanding (NYS CCSS Shift 3 – 6)

- students are expected to have speed and accuracy (fluency)
- teachers teach more than “how to get the answer” and support students’ ability to access concepts from a number of perspectives. Students demonstrate deep conceptual understanding of core math concepts
- students choose the appropriate concept for application; teachers provide opportunities for students to apply math concepts in real-world situations
- students are practicing and understanding (dual intensity) through extended application of math concepts.

To achieve the above goals, standards-aligned curriculum materials (e.g. Ready Gen, Expeditionary Learning, Wilson Reading) have been chosen that enable teachers to enhance and differentiate instruction. Materials have been carefully selected to complement each other and to ensure that the curriculum meets the needs of general education students (including high achieving students), students in the lowest third, special education students, and ELLs. The materials include several technology-based programs that work in connection with Smart Boards that are designed to not only engage students, but also individualize instruction and provide teachers with specific ongoing assessments of mastery and areas in which additional teaching is indicated.

Teachers and support staff will be assisted in acquiring the skills needed to infuse technology in the classroom to reach students of all leaning styles, as well as be more efficient. The educators will use technology to differentiate and scaffold activities according to the students’ needs and/or strengths. Promoting engagement through students’ interest in technology with programs such as Achieve 3000 and Accelerated Reader, educators will prepare students for the future when using technology aimed at addressing each learning style. Students will be equipped with the necessary skills and knowledge to move forward in their college studies and career advancement.

Curriculum resources include the following:

English Language Arts

PS 123 will utilize a combination of coordinated and standards aligned research-based programs that will address the diverse needs of its student population and provide assessments and teacher support to ensure optimum implementation of the resources.

Basic ELA Program	Supplemental ELA Program	Technology Based ELA Programs
Pearson Learning – Ready Gen (K – 5) – Provided through NYCDOE tax levy funding, the standards aligned Ready Gen literacy modules build strong readers and writers through a lesson structure that develops an undersigning of essential questions and deep social studies and science knowledge through conceptually coherent text sets. The program also provides foundational reading support (a readers/writers journal, close reading materials) and teacher resources. Wilson Reading Systems – Foundations (K – 3) – Wilson Foundations is a phonological/phonemic awareness, phonics and spelling program that is based on the Wilson Reading System principles and serves as a prevention program to help reduce reading and spelling failure. Foundations provides the research-validated strategies that complement core reading programs. Expeditionary Learning (3 – 8) – The standards based nonfiction/fiction Expeditionary Learning reading program instructs students in close reading and writing to learn, research-based narrative writing, considering perspectives and supporting opinions, opinion writing, gathering evidence and speaking to others. Tied to the grade specific ELA and social studies standards and	The basic ELA program will be supplemented and coordinated with the following: Wilson Reading System (remedial reading) – The Wilson Reading System (WRS) is a highly structured remedial program that is successful with learners who have been unable to learn with other teaching strategies, or who may require multisensory language instruction. Using an extensive collection of controlled and decodable texts, the program can follow students from grade to grade. Criterion-based assessments are built into the program to measure student progress and success. Rally Education (3 – 8) – Rally Education provides test prep materials aligned to the NYS standardized testing program. Scholastic – Leveled libraries that include fiction and nonfiction in grades K – 8 will be purchased from Scholastic. Scholastic’s libraries offer wide reading opportunities and integrate CCSS reading acquisition with a deep understanding of the demands of literature and informational text.	Since PS 123’s improvement plan features a heavy focus on the use of instructional technology, carefully chosen technology based ELA programs that provide ongoing assessments will be utilized to further differentiate instruction. Achieve 3000-Kid Biz (K – 3) – A standards aligned, technology based, individualized learning program that provides nonfiction reading materials matched to students’ lexile level and grade level standards. Training is included with the purchase of the program. Achieve 3000 – TeenBiz (6 – 8) – An online, standards based skills based reading program that reaches every student at his or her individualized Lexile/reading level. It is designed to assist students in achieving mastery based on nonfiction texts. Accelerated Reader (AR) – (K – 8) A technology based reading comprehension program (with ongoing individualized assessments, weekly reports, and yearly benchmarks). Complementing the Pearson Reading Program, AR utilizes the ATOS readability formula – a verified measure of quantitative text complexity for the CCSS. The program is provided to PS 123 at no cost to the grant topics, the program includes ongoing assessments and teacher reports.

Mathematics

Recommended by the NYCDOE GO Math! (K-8) was designed according to the CCSS with an emphasis on depth of instruction. Particular attention was given to providing support for teachers as they transition to a focused, rigorous curriculum. Students and teachers are supported as they advance from concrete to abstract content through the use of models and math talk prompts. The program is designed so that teachers can easily create the environments necessary for teaching the Common Core State Standards for Mathematics with depth without having to develop new materials. Scientific and/or graphing calculators will be used with the program in the upper grades. As a supplemental support for two and three-step math word problems, Rally Math test prep materials will be added to grades 3-8. This exposure and embedded rigor these resources offer will better prepare students for the highly analytical and strategic thinking the new Common Core Standards require, leading to the possibility of grade 8 acceleration for students.

Arts

An art studio will be established in the school and a variety of art supplies will be available. A Studio in a School teaching artist (for primary grades and upper grades) will staff the studio. Teachers will participate in art activities in the studio with their students, with the goal of helping teachers to incorporate art activities into their regular classroom instruction, as well as ensuring that the art activities are aligned with and are designed to illuminate the instructional program. As teachers engage in Project-based teaching approach, the visual arts will be infused throughout the curriculum.

Provided by Literacy Support Systems, a professional development/direct service “Supporting Literacy Through Movement” program will train teachers in using movement to help students increase their grasp of language, organize ideas visibly, and cultivate their imagination.

Social Studies

The NYCDOE approved Houghton-Mifflin Social Studies texts, supported with trade books, document based texts and primary source materials to enhance student comprehension on non-fiction will be utilized. However, as teachers become more skilled at designing project based learning and incorporating technology into their teaching repertoire, the way that social studies materials are utilized will evolve and become more student-centered, differentiated, and engaging. The Expeditionary Learning ELA program is already social-studies based, and classroom libraries aligned with social studies topics will be established in all classrooms.

Science

The NYCDOE approved Houghton-Mifflin Science texts, supported with trade books, scientific inquiry and hands-on activities will be utilized. However, as teachers become more skilled at designing active learning situations, and differentiating instruction, the way these science materials are utilized will change. Science trade books (e.g. scientist biographies) will be supplied in the classroom at different reading levels so that teachers are better able to differentiate instruction.

Restoration of a successful Robotics program will motivate and inspire students to increase and improve literacy, math, science, and oral presentation skills. The program will be implemented by the PS 123 science teacher.

Instruction. All teacher evaluation and development work described in this plan will be governed by NYSED policy that was still forthcoming at the time of this plan's writing. Features of the new instructional approach include the following:

- Project Based Learning - Project-based learning is a dynamic approach aligned with the CCLS in which students explore real-world problem and challenges to obtain a deeper knowledge of the subjects. Teachers will utilize weekly Collaborative Inquiry (CI) sessions to plan cross – curricular units with other teachers on the grade, so that instruction includes strategies for meeting the needs of general education and special education students, ELLs and gifted and talented students. Some CI sessions will be devoted to teachers meeting with colleagues across grades to ensure that units and lessons are appropriately scaffolded and build upon knowledge from grade to grade.
- Infusing the Arts - The arts will become an integral part of instruction. The arts are an effective tool for providing students with alternative means of expression (especially helpful with the large ELL population). Teachers will incorporate the expertise of resident artist through the Studio-in-a-School collaboration to infuse art through weekly and unit culminating cooperative projects.
- Workshop Model Teaching - Daily lessons will be planned using the Workshop model incorporating multiple entry points, small group targeted instruction and individual conferences to address individual learning needs while maintaining high expectations for all learners including the high achievers.
- Incorporating Technology - Technology, which is almost non-existent at PS 123 at the current time, it will become an important vehicle for differentiating instruction, assessing progress and engaging students. With the support of SIG funding, Smart Boards will be installed in every classroom. These newly installed Smart Boards will provide teachers the opportunity to represent rigorous curriculum by integrating educational videos and interactive multimedia technology in all areas of instruction. Additionally, classrooms (3 – 8) will be provided with laptop computers for all students (using computer carts). In year 2 , early childhood students will be provided with iPads for instructional reinforcement and motivation. A full-time technology coach will be hired to provide teachers with job embedded professional development and support the training by technology consultants when the consultants are not in the school.
- School Subscriptions - School subscriptions such as Safari Montage (i.e. Discovery Channel, PBS and National Geographic), Brain Pop and Tumble Books will provide teachers with additional integration and content support to maximize and deepen learning. As teachers become experts, opportunities to share practice and resources during grade level team meetings will become standard.
- Ongoing Assessment – Authentic formative assessment of learning will become standard practice at PS 123 since the instructional materials that have been selected include ongoing online assessments.

Students will take trips to the Brooklyn Historical Society with the goal of helping the social studies program in the school come alive through active learning experiences. 200 students will take five trips during the year. Additionally, the society will model effective teaching practices for upper grade students. Additionally, the society will provide professional Development for teachers in grades 4 – 8 training on utilizing document resources and existing cultural sites for teaching social studies effectively

iii. Use of Time

After consultation, the principal, School Leadership Team, Parent Teacher Association and United Federation of Teachers have agreed to a newly designed instructional day schedule which will begin earlier and include small group targeted instruction in two fifty-minute blocks Tuesday and Wednesday mornings from 8:00-8:50am. On Thursday, during the additional fifty-minute block teachers will meet in collaborative inquiry groups to discuss student performance, and plan targeted instruction in grade groups and vertical planning groups. Teachers will be expected to present student work and develop action plans to address the patterns of deficiencies for the low, mid and high performers. In addition to the morning supplemental instructional blocks, PS 123 will implement an after school extended day program and a Saturday Academy staffed by PS 123 teachers (who know students well). During these extended learning times, students will have the opportunity for tutoring, remediation, homework help, enrichment, and talent development. Extended time staff will have opportunities to meet with regular classroom teachers to discuss student progress and areas in need of remediation.

The chart below illustrates the new weekly school schedule indicating supplemental instruction. Following the chart is a sample daily schedule for grades 3 and 4. School will be in session for a minimum of 180 days per year,

In addition to early morning extended day services described above, PS 123 will maximize the use of time by implementing an after-school extended day program and a Saturday program designed to support students with remediation, homework help, skill development, talent exploration, and enrichment. The after-school program will run two days per week 2 hours per day for 20 weeks; the Saturday program will run for 18 weeks. The goals of the morning extended day, Saturday program and after school extended day are the same – to support students in achieving desired targets. They will all be implemented in all three years of the grant.

ii. Data-Driven Instruction/Inquiry (DDI).

PS 123 will adhere to the schedule developed by the NYCDOE for administering Interim Assessments. Workshops conducted by Literacy Support Systems, the Data Specialist and school principal, at which teachers will be trained in reading and analyzing results of the Interim Assessments (at faculty and grade meetings). Collaborative Inquiry Groups (CI) will be the main venue for not only analyzing these results, but for designing instruction that will address deficits identified (grade deficits, school deficits, student deficits, subgroup deficits). Since CI meet weekly, they provide a continuing opportunity for teachers to measure interim assessment results against further instructional practice. Teachers will meet with Administration to present evidence of student performance during benchmark meetings in November, February/March and May presenting ECLAS, Accelerated Reader Benchmark Tests, Reading levels, Pearson Success Maker reports and Rally Simulations/Acuity results for testing grades. Teachers will be supported regarding designing and implementing instructional strategies tied to data analysis by the school coaches, partner consultants (e.g. Literacy Support Systems, Wilson Reading Systems), the Assistant Principal for Instruction, and the school principal.

PS/MS 123 Assessment Calendar 2013-2014

Note: Teachers will be supported in implementing the assessments and assessing results by the school coaches, school leadership and Literacy Support Specialist consultants.

With the goal of designing data driven instruction and data driven professional development, PS 123 will utilize its technology capabilities to implement online student learning assessments provided by Achieve 3000. A research-based, ARRA approved, proven successful online reading/formative assessment program, Achieve 3000 will enable teachers and students to achieve targeted standards.

iii. Student Support. Providing academic, social-emotional, and student support

Student support/Academic Intervention Services (AIS) will meet all requirements established by the NYSED and NYCDOE regarding benchmarks for receiving AIS, parent notification, intensity and duration of instruction, benchmarks for exiting from the AIS program.

Student Identification - Students will be identified for the program in September by examining the previous year's assessment results. Additionally, benchmarks included in the Early Star Reading Assessment (K – 1) and the Accelerated Reader Star Reading (2 – 8) Assessment Battery will be utilized to differentiate students' needs.

Response to Intervention Model (RTI)- A tiered instructional program, designed in response to the assessment outcomes will drive the academic supports for each student and will vary according to the nature and severity of the student's challenges (Response to Intervention). Teachers will be trained in the Wilson Reading Program to evaluate students, provide phonics and decoding help. Two AIS teachers will provide Intense Reading Clinics; students will attend these reading clinics in six week cycles, with those students needing the most assistance receiving more frequent and intense intervention. Students will be evaluated throughout their involvement in RTI. AIS teachers will have opportunities for ongoing communication with classroom teachers at Collaborative Inquiry meetings and at grade level meetings. AIS teachers will lead an RTI team made up of AIS teachers, counselors and social workers. The team will design and monitor RTI activities, coordinate activities with classroom teachers and also provide classroom teachers with strategies and materials to be utilized with target students when they are in the regular classroom.

Social/Emotional/Health Supports - A comprehensive array of academic, social/emotional and health interventions (e.g. counseling, case management, tutoring, homework help) will be supplied by a team of AIS school staff (teachers, guidance counselor, social worker) and partner providers (Ramapo, Graham Windam). Student case conferencing will be a regular feature of the program, and outreach to parents of students receiving AIS will be made by the PS 123 family worker, social worker, guidance counselor, and partner agencies with the goal of developing a comprehensive approach and array of services for each student.

iv. School Climate and Discipline.

To continue to build upon the existing positive school climate, PS 123 will implement and enhance the following:

Character Education Program – the program teaches students to focus on infusing character traits that help students to understand the need to take responsibility for their actions and examine how their behavior impacts others as well as finding methods in a loving and caring manner to assist those in need. Character education will take place as part of the daily instructional program.

Ramapo Program - teaches students how to examine their behavior and resolve conflict in a positive way. Often, students misbehave because of the emotional attraction to the association of others contextual misbehaviors (Thorne-Figueroa, 2010, Anderman & Murdock, 2007). The Ramapo Program is a direct/service training program for teachers across grade levels that places emphasis on how to break a conflict cycle.

“Keep the Beat” a middle school (6-8) program will be implemented at PS 123. The program teaches students how to resolve their intra/conflicts positively and how to become mentors to new incoming students. The students are trained to assist other peers who may have difficulty resolving their issues.

Big Brother, Big Sister Program places emphasis on the importance of PS 123 staff members becoming caring mentors to female or male students. The staff sets aside time to meet and discuss an array of issues with their assigned student. Often, staff members may have more than one assigned student. Being a Big Brother or Big Sister mentor supports those students who have difficulty conforming to school protocol.

Mentoring program uses guidance counselors, social workers, administrators, parent coordinator and deans to support challenging students who have maladaptive behaviors. These students are monitored frequently to encourage productive school work and moral-ethical accountability.

More Intensive Services - Although the aforementioned programs tend to promote positive behaviors, they may not be enough for the more challenged individuals. To be able to meet the needs of all students and their families, more interventional and therapeutic programs are at times indicated. Therefore, PS 123 proposes enhancing its partnership with Ramapo for Children, and establishing a partnership with the Puerto Rican Family Agency.

v. Parent and Community Engagement

As a Title I school, PS 123 has created a parent involvement policy that was developed in consultation with parents of participating Title I students to ensure that parents are involved in planning, implementing, and evaluating the Title I program. Parents are included as team members to provide input in the development and review of the instructional and school improvement plan when necessary. At the beginning of each school year, the policy is distributed to parents of Title I students and to the extent practicable, provided in a language the parents can understand.

The PS 123 will create various ways in which involvement can be fostered and rendered as part of an overall means to include families in their children’s learning through parenting classes, communication, volunteering, learning at home, decision making, and collaborating with the Community. PS 123 will incorporate technologically in communication and means of involvement for all families.

Strategies will include

- Assistance to families with parenting skills, family support, understanding child and adolescent development, and setting home conditions to support learning at each age and grade level through classes/workshops held monthly.
- Literacy Support Services will provide parent informational and development classes: Understanding the Common Core, Literacy and the Arts supports from Home, Establishing Healthy School Ritual and Routines
- Maintaining open communication - The school will communicate with parents two-way communication channels that are effective and reliable, including phone texting support and alerts, emails, and interactive webpages where parents can request information, make appointments, schedule classes, review their child's weekly activities and expectations (including homework), get tips on how to assist their children with their studies, and other curriculum-related activities. Where feasible, communication will be in the various languages that represent community and student population.
- A recruitment team will be assembled to improve volunteer staffing and training to involve families as volunteers and as audiences at the school. Meaningful work and flexible schedules will be provided.
- Decision making opportunities – Families will be included as participants in school decisions, governance, and advocacy activities through school councils or improvement teams, committees and other organizations.
- A school facilitator will coordinate resources and services for families, students, and the school with community groups, including businesses, agencies, cultural and civic organizations, and colleges or universities.
- PS/MS serves twelve shelters in the surrounding area of the perimeter of the school. As an effort to continue to support families, we will enhance relationships with the temporary housing facility staff and educational content specialist, create a community to assist families need, provide structure, carfare to attend PS/MS 123's workshops/classes and referrals for social/emotional support. A liaison will be assigned to work with the families and communicate with staff to ensure their voices are heard as part of the community.
- To educate parents in the new CCI aligned strategies, and to encourage parent involvement and enhance and foster the social/emotion balance at home and school., PS 123 will implement parent workshops, a fall and spring literacy fair and special events (e.g. Father/Son Day, End-of-Year Festival)

I. Training, Support, and Professional Development

PS 123 Professional Development Plan

To hone teachers' skills, PS 123 will support teacher growth in strengthening classroom practices and incorporating best practices (including incorporating technology) focused on improving student outcomes. This will be accomplished through strategically:

- Provide time for examining student work for evidence of learning, learning gaps against the demands of the Common Core standards
- Provide training in the Danielson Framework for Teaching. All teacher evaluation and development work described in this plan will be governed by NYSED policy that was still forthcoming at the time of this plan's writing
- Analyzing data, including student formative assessment data and student work samples, and classroom observation data to inform professional development activities

- Providing job-embedded professional development for assistant principals provided by the principal and Literacy Support Systems consultants and other partners (e.g. Tequipment, Ramapo for Children)
- Providing teachers/staff with opportunities to visit colleagues' classrooms and actively participate in meaningful feedback
- Aligning targeted coaching with respect to teacher's identified needs
- Developing common protocols and tools to use during Collaborative Inquiry team meetings in order to identify next steps and needed adjustments to instructional practice and assessment practices of student work
- Involving staff in setting personal goals allowing them to reflect on their work to identify areas for growth

i. School leadership/staff involvement in SIG plan development

Staff has been involved in the development of this plan during the entire grant preparation cycle. The SIG plan is aligned with the school's SCEP.

- As described earlier, staff elected to utilize the 150 minutes additional time for teachers for a morning extended day program and a collaborative inquiry professional development model. (Scheduling extended day in the morning results in better attendance.) The third 50 minute block for professional development will be scheduled on Thursday from 2:20 – 3:10 pm.
- Leadership Team meetings have been utilized to discuss and develop this plan with staff representing UFT, CSA and parents. Representatives from the three groups share information with their constituencies to inform and elicit feedback.
- Lead Teachers and the Network staff have been involved in the planning aspects and writing portions of the proposal primarily in the areas of instruction.
- Parent Coordinator and PTO lead members have contributed to the needs assessment as a basis for collaboration.
- Teachers on SLT, Assistant Principals and instructional coaches were involved in planning, researching and writing key components.
- Meetings have taken place with school leadership and proposed partners to determine staff and student needs and to customize partner services to PS 123 needs.

iii. Plan for training, support and professional development

PS 123 has developed a plan and structures for evaluating professional development effectiveness and encouraging feedback re: professional development so as to be well positioned to make mid-project adjustments in activities provided. Evaluation and feedback are critical to the successful implementation of the SIG plan and will be ongoing throughout the school improvement process.

- Teacher practice will be a major factor in assessing the effectiveness of professional development. A Five Step Process has been established to carefully assess teacher practice.
  - 1) Principal and Assistant Principals conduct weekly informal and formal teacher observations. Results are reported at Weekly Instructional Cabinet meetings attended by school leaders and PS 123 coaches.
  - 2) Coach logs (with teacher outcomes) are discussed at Weekly Instructional Cabinet Meetings also, to determine individual teacher needs. Individual teacher learning plans are developed.
  - 3) Coaches support teachers in those areas of need and provide reports at Weekly Instructional Cabinet Meetings.
  - 4) Principal and Assistant Principals observe teachers again. Teacher profiles (re: strengths, challenges) and a plan of assistance is developed for each teacher.
  - 5) Feedback regarding teacher progress/continuing needs is provided.
- Teacher Feedback Forms will be utilized at the end of each professional development workshop to ascertain if the workshop met teacher's needs. On the form, the teacher can also indicate "next steps" for further support needed. The forms will be analyzed and shared with the professional development provider (PS 123 staff member, or partner).
- Coaching effectiveness is evaluated by informal and formal observations of the coach at work in the classroom, and by a review of the coach's weekly logs.
- School Collaborative Inquiry Groups (SCIG) are another structure at which instructional strategies can be evaluated as to how they impact student achievement. Protocols for examining student work are utilized at the SCIG; feedback sheets are completed by teachers; strategies for differentiating instruction are developed.
- All data regarding effectiveness of professional development will be collected by the school leaders and analyzed at weekly Instructional Cabinet Meetings.
- Additional feedback from the school's DOE Network Leader will be sought re: professional development effectiveness.

A summer professional development institute will be held each summer to look back and look forward regarding accomplishments, challenges, and for making plans for the following school year. The institutes will be co-facilitated by the school coaches, school leaders and consultants from Literacy Support Systems.

J. Communication and Stakeholder Involvement/Engagement

i. Method of regularly updating school stakeholders on SIG plan implementation

The NYCDOE and the Priority School fully and transparently consulted and collaborated with education stakeholders about the school's Priority status and on the implementation of the SIG plan. Upon designation of the school as a Priority School by the New York State Education Department in August 2012, the NYCDOE sent letters to superintendents, clusters school support staff, and principals about the school's Priority School designation.

Principals were provided with letter templates to send to parents with the instructions that families must be notified of the school's Priority status within 30 days of the State's designation. Principals were also invited to two different meetings with Senior Deputy Chancellors Shael Suransky and Marc Sternberg on August 31 to learn more about the school's Priority status, intervention model options, and next steps for the NYCDOE and school. Superintendents, clusters, networks school support staff, and principals participated in trainings on the ESEA waiver and Priority status to turn-key the information to stakeholders. NYCDOE staff also presented the information directly at information on state accountability designations and implications during Community Education Council meetings, a meeting of the Panel on Education Policy, and other community meetings.

As the Priority School developed its School Improvement Grant, it was required to consult and collaborate with its stakeholders, including leaders from the principals' union, teachers' union, and parent groups. The NYCDOE asked schools to submit Attachment A, the consultation and collaboration form, in addition to doing district-level consultation and collaboration, with leaders in the following groups: Council of Supervisors & Administrators (CSA; principals' union), United Federation of Teachers (UFT; teachers' union), and Chancellor's Parent Advisory Committee (CPAC), NYCDOE parent leadership body. By doing so, the NYCDOE sought to ensure that consultation and collaboration took place at the school-level in addition to the district-level. When it was brought to the attention of the NYCDOE that further school-level consultation and collaboration efforts needed to be made, the NYCDOE extended the deadline for submission of Attachment A and provided additional guidance to schools to ensure appropriate consultation and collaboration took place prior to submission of the SIG plan.

The Priority School will continue to regularly update stakeholders on the implementation of the SIG plan. The SIG plan will be an agenda item for discussion in the monthly School Leadership Team meetings, the shared decision-making body of the school, along with typically monthly Parent Teacher Association or other parent group meetings. In addition, the school will provide a letter to families and other stakeholders about the status of the school's SIG plan upon the start of the 2013-14 school year and annually thereafter. The NYCDOE will provide the Priority School with a letter template to utilize, similar to the school's designation as a Priority School.

PS 123 has a supportive and caring environment, as determined by the Quality Review conducted by the NYCDOE and evidenced by the strong relationship the new principal has been able to develop with staff and parents in just a short time. A great many structures for communication and feedback between and among constituencies are already operating well. This open and trusting climate will promote the sharing of information between school leadership, teaching and support staff, and parents.

- At regular meetings of the School Leadership Team, information about the implementation and progress of the school improvement plan will be shared. Members feel empowered to express their opinions and the opinions of their constituencies.
- Faculty conferences offer opportunities to share information and get feedback from the entire school staff. The SIG grant progress and challenges will be included on the agenda of the faculty conferences.
- Principal's Instructional Cabinet Meetings are scheduled weekly. At these meetings school leaders openly discuss "how things are going" at PS 123. The SIG grant will be a regular and often discussed topic at these meetings.
- Parent Meetings are already scheduled and will continue to be an ongoing venue for discussing many topics including the school's SIG grant improvement model. Although the parent meetings are fairly well attended, the school has already begun exploring strategies that will attract more parents to these meetings, including being able to provide additional translators and providing documents in parent-friendly language.

E. Project Plan and Timeline

	leaders)

ii. “Early wins” as early indicators of a successful SIG plan.

The following “early wins” will be sought:

- Common understanding of expectations by the entire school community and supporting partners
- Deeper understanding of supervisory support and content by school leaders
- Teachers are creating units of study and lesson plans that are based on Danielson’s Framework for Professional Practice and have begun to engage students through rigorous active learning experiences
- Collaborative Inquiry groups are working effectively: teachers are examining student work and discussing student progress, becoming reflective by analyzing teaching effectiveness of teaching strategies, serving as “critical friends”,
- Classroom observations and assessments are indicating a higher level of student engagement.
- Technology is beginning to become incorporated into the classroom instructional program. Teachers are utilizing technology to access instructional and curricular resources.
- Parent attendance at instructional and enrichment events is growing in number iii. Leading indicators of success to be examined at least quarterly

Leading Indicators of Success will be analyzed on a quarterly basis (or more frequently). Data will be collected by the school leaders, analyzed by school leaders and teachers, and reported to the staff and parent body at Leadership Team Meetings, Faculty and Grade Conferences, and at Parent Events.

Positive indicators are:

- Student growth on NYCDOE Interim Assessments and school created assessments
- Increase in student attendance; reduction in suspension/truancy rates (disaggregated by subgroup)
- Student and staff attendance is at a higher level. There is better teacher attendance (especially on Mondays and Fridays).
- Growth in implementation of Danielson’s domains is evident in classrooms and in teacher practice

iv. Goals and key strategies for Year Two and Year Three of implementation.

Year 2 Goals/Strategies	Year 3 Goals/Strategies
Use of technology becomes more widespread - computer carts are provided in grade 3 – 8 classrooms. iPads are provided and used in grades K - 2	Technology has become embedded in the school and is used daily by teachers and students in a variety of ways (assessment, skill development, research, enrichment).
Teacher skill continues to improve. Research-based effective instruction yields high quality student work.	Student achievement continues to improve. Students becoming responsible for their own learning.
Teachers are using formative data regularly to plan instruction	There is a clear system and criteria, including analysis of student work, used for instruction and resource management; teachers provide valuable input re: resource allocation. Students are aware of their progress and areas that need further work. They refer to their assessments when developing personal goals.

Year 2 Goals/Strategies	Year 3 Goals/Strategies
Teachers are growing in their ability to utilize curricular aligned assessment practices that inform instruction	Curriculum is becoming more rigorous; students are creating meaning, integrating skills into processes, and using what they have learned to solve real problems
Structures for a positive learning environment are becoming more a part of the school	Teachers share a common understanding of what effective teaching looks like and are able to implement it in their classrooms.
A culture of learning is becoming more established (teachers and students)	There is demonstrated teacher growth with ongoing reflection and interim goal setting, along with improved student outcomes
Teachers are more likely to engage in collaborative practice. School Collaborative Inquiry Groups (SCIG) are established and working well.	Teachers become “critical friends” for their colleagues and communicate on a regular basis, outside of SCIG.
Professional development results in change in practice because it is more closely aligned with teachers’ needs.	When data indicates, teachers are able to differentiate instruction to meet each student’s needs.
Parent attendance at events and course offerings is increased.	Parents participate in the design of events. Parents take responsibility for new parents in the school.
Teachers design their own learning plans.	Teachers provide training for each other.

Attachment B MEMO: School-level Baseline Data and Target-Setting Chart Methodology Used for Data

This memo explains the methodology used to determine the district average, school baseline, and/or school targets for indicators in Attachment B. Notes are also given for indicators where schools are unable to set targets at this time.

- a. Number of minutes in the school year: The school's baseline data for 2010-11 was determined based on the number of instructional days in the school year and the minimum required daily instructional time (5 hours for grades 1-6 and 5.5 hours for grades 7-12).
- b. Student participation in State ELA assessment
- c. Student participation in State Math assessment
- d. Drop-out rate
- e. Student average daily attendance: Calculation based on aggregate of days students were present divided by days present + absent for school year 2010-11.
- f. Student completion of advanced coursework: High Schools: This includes Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate, college-credit courses, etc.

- g. Suspension rate: Represents the number of suspensions as reported to SED (School Report Card) divided by the number of students enrolled in 2010-11.
- h. Number of discipline referrals: Represents total count of Level 3-5 incidents in 2010-11
- i. Truancy rate: K-8: Aggregate number of students absent 30% or more divided by register.
High Schools: Aggregate number of students absent 50% or more in 9-12 divided by register.
- j. Teacher attendance rate: Calculated based on 2010-2011 school year:  $1 - (\text{total absent days} / \text{total active days})$

Absent days: defined as total of time teachers were reported to be absent for discretionary reasons (personal, sick, and grace period) during 2010-2011 school year. Excludes school holidays and weekends, or when teachers were otherwise not required to report to school.

Active days: defined as all days where teachers were to report to school based on DOE school calendar (excludes school holidays, snowdays, and weekends) where they were in the title of teacher, and were not on leave or sabbatical.

- k. Teachers rated as “effective” and “highly effective”: Data for percentage of teachers rated "Effective" and "Highly Effective" (HEDI categories) does not exist for all schools at this time. Please note that targets will be set for teacher ratings once the new evaluation system is underway. All elements related to teacher evaluation will be consistent with the Commissioner of Education’s determination and order dated June 1, 2013 regarding the NYC APPR, Education Law 3012-c, and NYSED regulations.”

l. Hours of professional development to improve teacher performance

This may include the following types of professional development activities:

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• PD to implement Common Core-aligned curriculum, including specific curricular programs (e.g., core curriculum adoptions)</li> <li>• PD to build a shared understanding of Danielson’s Framework for Teaching and develop a shared picture of effective teaching</li> <li>• PD to understand the new system of teacher evaluation and development</li> <li>• PD to implement Response to Intervention (RtI)</li> <li>• PD for teachers working with English Language Learners</li> <li>• PD to implement Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS)</li> <li>• Observation and feedback to individual teachers</li> <li>• PD/mentoring to support new teachers</li> <li>• PD to implement CTE courses in which increased percentages of historically underserved students will enroll</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• PD to implement Advanced Placement (AP), International Baccalaureate (IB), and/or Cambridge courses in the subjects for which NYSED has approved an alternate assessment, and in which increased percentages of historically underserved students will enroll</li> <li>• PD to implement virtual/blended AP, IB, and/or Cambridge (AICE or IGCSE) courses in the subjects for which NYSED has approved an alternative assessment, and in which increased percentages of historically underserved students will enroll</li> <li>• PD to implement Expanded Learning Time (ELT) opportunities that may include art, music, remediation and enrichment programs</li> <li>• Teacher team meetings in which teachers plan lessons and units that integrate the Common Core instructional shifts can be a form of professional development if teachers are supported in doing this work</li> </ul>
--	---

Note: A large and well-regarded federal study of PD programs (Yoon et al., 2007) found that 14 hours was the minimum amount of time that yielded statistically significant impact on student outcomes; i.e., 14 hours of PD on a particular topic or coherent set of topics, as a coherent PD experience, rather than 14 disconnected one-hour workshops. More than 14 hours of professional development showed a positive and significant effect on student achievement—the three studies that involved the least professional development (5–14 hours total) showed no statistically significant effects on student achievement. Teachers who received substantial PD—an average of 49 hours among nine studies—boosted their students’ achievement by about 21 percentile points.

m. Hours of professional development to improve leadership and governance

This may include the following types of professional development activities:

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Regular meetings in which school leaders:             <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Review data and establish an instructional focus</li> <li>○ Evaluate curricular alignment with standards in all content areas</li> <li>○ Plan and adjust PD to support implementation of the school’s curricula</li> <li>○ Plan and adjust PD to improve instruction</li> </ul> </li> <li>• Regular meetings in which team leaders develop</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Support for highly effective teachers who mentor, coach, or provide professional development to student teachers, new teachers, or teachers rated as ineffective, developing, or effective in high-needs schools</li> <li>• PD for principals/ instructional supervisors regarding the implementation of CTE courses in which increased percentages of historically underserved students will enroll</li> </ul>
