

Photo by João Silas on Unsplash

ANALYZING SITUATIONS

Once we recognize that a problem exists, solving it effectively requires analyzing the situation, including listening actively to understand how the problem arose, considering the situation from multiple perspectives, and weighing ethical considerations.

Avoiding snap decisions and analyzing situations before responding encourages Responsible Decision-making, one of five core Social Emotional Learning Competencies. Learn more here: bit.ly/nysel